Vivian, 1995 Social policy in developing countries has been substantially affected in recent years by economic crisis and structural adjustment and perhaps more importantly by the ascendance of neo liberal ideology By the late 1980s the adverse effects of adjustment had become clear and the resulting political opposition led many governments and their external supporters to design programmes meant to mitigate the social costs of adjustment The most visible of these are the social fund or safety net measures intended not only to address the social impacts of adjustment but also to improve their social and political acceptability In addition they are seen by some as providing a model for new more efficient and effective means of providing social service This volume examines the goals assumptions impacts and possible long term outcomes of social policy trends in developing countries Peri-Urban Developments and Processes in Africa with Special Reference to Zimbabwe Innocent Chirisa, Elias Mazhindu, Elmond Bandaiko, 2016-05-23 This book focuses on peri urban development processes in Africa with special emphasis on Zimbabwe The debates included highlight a number of issues in the peri urban context such as access to water appropriate technologies and land management political economy in the peri urban space peri urban agriculture and place marketing in peri urban development among others The debates raised by the authors in this book revolve around locating the peri urban space within the context of sustainability in which key issues are addressed

The Economics of Tropical Farming Systems Martin

Upton, 1996-12-12. Clear student text on theory and practice of economic decision making in tropical agriculture.

Engendering Democracy in Africa Niamh Gaynor, 2022-06-01. This book investigates women's political participation in Africa. Going beyond the formal institutions of electoral politics, it explores a range of spaces where everyday politics take place at national and at local levels. In recent years, there have been significant improvements in the number of women elected to parliament in Africa. However, there is little indication that this is translating into better developmental outcomes, and indeed, there is mounting evidence that it could in fact help to bolster some authoritarian regimes. Starting from the premise that politics is a far broader project than securing a seat in national or local legislatures alone, this book explores the opportunities for women's political participation across a number of informal spaces where women and men gather, organise and interact in a more regular and systematic manner. Combining insights from political science, sociology and feminist theory and drawing on detailed cases from the Congo, Kenya, Malawi, Nigeria and Rwanda, it examines how power in its multiple dimensions circulates across a range of everyday political spaces while drawing attention to the links between domestic gender inequalities and the global political economy. Inviting scholars, practitioners and activists to broaden their focus beyond formal electoral institutions, if they want to support women to become more politically active, this book provides fresh insights into major issues at the heart of African studies, development studies, gender and development, democratisation and international relations. Twenty Years of Independence in Zimbabwe S. Darnoff, L. Laakso, 2016-01-13. This collection offers comprehensive insights into pivotal areas of concern regarding developments in Zimbabwe since its independence. By disclosing the intra-elite competition, assessing the performance of Zimbabwe's economy and explaining how the country's natural resources have been managed, we can better understand the ruling ZANU PF's increasing reliance on the so-called war veterans and the land reform issue for its political survival.
