Mind The Gap Geography Study Guide:

Mind the Gap! Gail Davidson, 2012      Mind the Gap! Gail Davidson, Julia Grey, Ren   Ferreira, South Africa. Department of Basic Education, 2012      Geography Teacher Education and Professionalization Ey  p Artvinli, Inga Gryl, Jongwon Lee, Jerry T. Mitchell, 2022-11-02 This book focuses on how current and prospective teachers worldwide are prepared for the significant task of teaching geography given the important role of teachers. It eschews a traditional career centric framework pre service in service teaching in favor of a topical approach toward issues that all teachers face. The book updates thinking on geography education subfields such as GI education and fieldwork and traces important contemporary discourses such as digitalization and sustainability. The book further explains the broad variety of institutionalization of geography teacher education in various political systems. In short, this book collects strategies for geography teacher educators worldwide to provide insight into the challenges, conditions, and solutions present at the classroom and institutional level. As such, this book is a must have for teacher educators and geography teachers worldwide.      Approaches to Human Geography Stuart C. Aitken, Gill Valentine, 2014-12-01 The book covers some of the traditionally most obtuse and difficult to grasp philosophical ideas that have influenced geographers' geography. The fact that these are presented in an inclusive and accessible manner is a key strength. Many students have commented that the chapters they have read have encouraged them to read more in this field, which is fantastic from a lecturer's perspective. Richard White, Sheffield Hallam University. A new edition of the classic Approaches text for students, organised in three sections which overview and explain the history and philosophy of Human Geographies in all its applications by those who practise it. Section One: Philosophies: Positivist Geography, Humanism, Feminist Geographies, Marxism, Structuration Theory, Human Animal Realism, Postmodern Geographies, Poststructuralist Theories, Actor Network Theory, Postcolonialism, Geohumanities, Technologies. Section Two: People, Institutions, and Cultures, Places and Contexts, Memories and Desires, Understanding Place, Personal and Political, Becoming a Geographer, Movement and Encounter, Spaces and Flows, Places as Thoughts. Section Three: Practices: Mapping and Geovisualization, Quantification, Evidence and Positivism, Geographic Information Systems, Humanism, Activism, Feminist Geographies, Poststructuralist Theories, Psychoanalysis, Environmental Inquiry, Contested Geographies, and Culture Wars. Fully updated throughout and with eight brand new chapters, this is the core text for modules on history, theory, and practice in Human Geography.      Geography Education Research in the UK: Retrospect and Prospect Graham Butt, 2019-08-22 This book provides a unique assessment of the development of research in geography education and its future prospects, offering a challenging critique of subject based education research with particular reference to geography education across a range of different jurisdictions. It covers a range of topics including the changing role of research in geography education, the relationship between education research and professional practice with special reference to geography education research, the place of academic subject knowledge in geography education research, critiques of the functions of research in geography education and the key issues for education policy and policymakers concerning educational research at national and international levels. Importantly in a period marked by radical change for education research and researchers the book offers a timely appraisal of possible ways forward for geography education research. Addressing the needs of academics, research students, policymakers and education practitioners who undertake use or shape the future of research in geography education, it comprehensively explores the forces that have driven the development of geography education research and pedagogy. Further by positioning its analysis in the context of education policy debates in the UK and further afield, it assesses the role and function of research in education and offers an outlook on its future. This book is essential reading for all those who wish to understand the sporadic and increasingly uncertain development of subject based research in education.

South African Schooling: The Enigma of Inequality Nic Spaull, Jonathan D. Jansen, 2019-11-05. This volume brings together many of South Africa's leading scholars of education and covers the full range of South African schooling from financing and policy reform to in depth discussions of literacy, numeracy, teacher development and curriculum change. The book moves beyond a historical analysis and provides an inside view of the questions South African scholars are now grappling with. Are there different and preferential equilibria we have not yet thought of or explored and if so what are they? In practical terms how does one get to a more equitable distribution of teachers, resources and learning outcomes? While decidedly local, these questions resonate throughout the developing world. South Africa today is the most unequal country in the world. The richest 10% of South Africans lay claim to 65% of national income and 90% of national wealth. This is the largest 90/10 gap in the world and one that is reflected in the schooling system. Two decades after apartheid it is still the case that the life chances of most South African children are determined not by their ability or the result of hard work and determination but instead by the colour of their skin, the province of their birth and the wealth of their parents. Looking back on almost three decades of democracy in South Africa it is this stubbornness of inequality and its patterns of persistence that demands explanation, justification and analysis. This is a landmark book on basic education in South Africa, an essential volume for those interested in learning outcomes and their inequality in South Africa. The various chapters present conceptually and empirically sophisticated analyses of learning outcomes across divisions of race, class and place. The book brings together the wealth of decades of research output from top quality researchers to explore what has improved, what has not and why. Prof Lant Pritchett, Harvard University. There is much wisdom in this collection from many of the best education analysts in South Africa. No surprise that they conclude that without a large and sustained expansion in well trained teachers, early childhood education and adequate school resources, South Africa will continue to sacrifice its people's future to maintaining the privileges of the few. Prof Martin Carnoy, Stanford University. Altogether one can derive from this very valuable volume, if not an exact blueprint for the future, then certainly at least a crucial and evidence based itinerary for the next few steps. Dr Luis Crouch, RTI. Concrete Revolution Christopher Sneddon, 2015-09-25. Water may seem innocuous but as a universal necessity it inevitably intersects with politics when it comes to acquisition control and associated technologies While we know a great deal about the socioecological costs and benefits of modern dams we know far less about their political origins and ramifications In Concrete Revolution Christopher Sneddon offers a corrective a compelling historical account of the US Bureau of Reclamation s contributions to dam technology Cold War politics and the social and environmental adversity perpetuated by the US government in its pursuit of economic growth and geopolitical power Founded in 1902 the Bureau became enmeshed in the US State Department s push for geopolitical power following World War II a response to the Soviet Union s increasing global sway By offering technical and water resource management advice to the world s underdeveloped regions the Bureau found that it could not only provide them with economic assistance and the United States with investment opportunities but also forge alliances and shore up a country s global standing in the face of burgeoning communist influence Drawing on a number of international case studies from the Bureau s early forays into overseas development and the launch of its Foreign Activities Office in 1950 to the Blue Nile investigation in Ethiopia Concrete Revolution offers insights into this historic damming boom with vital implications for the present If Sneddon argues we can understand dams as both technical and political objects rather than instruments of impartial science we can better participate in current debates about large dams and river basin planning

Reconceptualising Professional Learning Tara Fenwick, Monika Nerland, 2014-03-14 This book presents leading edge perspectives and methodologies to address emerging issues of concern for professional learning in contemporary society The conditions for professional practice and learning are changing dramatically in the wake of globalization new modes of knowledge production new regulatory regimes and increased economic political pressures In the wake of this a number of challenges for learning emerge more practitioners become involved in interprofessional collaboration developments in new technologies and virtual workworlds emergence of transnational knowledge cultures and interrelated circuits of knowledge The space and time relations in which professional practice and learning are embedded are becoming more complex as are the epistemic underpinnings of professional work Together these shifts bring about intersections of professional knowledge and responsibilities that call for new conceptions of professional knowing Exploring what the authors call sociomaterial perspectives on professional learning they argue that theories that trace not just the social but also the material aspects of practice such as tools technologies texts but also bodies and actions are useful for coming to terms with the challenges described above Reconceptualising Professional Learning develops these issues through specific contemporary cases focused on one of the book s three main themes 1 professionals knowing in practice 2 professionals work arrangements and technologies or 3 professional responsibility Each chapter draws upon innovative theory to highlight the sociomaterial webs through which professional learning may be reconceptualised Authors are based in Australia Canada Italy Norway Sweden and the USA as well as the UK and their cases are based in a range of professional settings including medicine teaching nursing engineering social services the creative industries and more By presenting detailed accounts of these themes from a sociomaterial perspective the book opens new questions and methodological approaches These can help make more visible what is often invisible in today s messy dynamics of professional learning and point to new ways of configuring educational support and policy for professionals     Annual Report South Africa. Department of Basic Education,2016     Professional Development in Online Teaching and Learning in Technical Communication Beth L. Hewett,Tiffany Bourelle,2020-05-18 Technical communication instructors need professional development opportunities that will aid them in creating their online courses in developing curricula and in teaching in what may be a new environment Although instructors can turn to instructional design teams for assistance in using Learning Management System and its functions they specifically need their own first hand immersive learning within their pedagogical training In other words teachers need to learn in an online context like the environment that their students will use such direct training helps instructors to facilitate student learning in a technologically distributed classroom Beyond learning technological skills to facilitate a course these teachers need to learn to use the technology effectively to keep students on track and to teach them skills and material This collection which includes three contributions from 2007 and 10 from 2017 focuses on the types of professional development instructors need to be successful in the online technical communication classroom Formed as a 10 year retrospective of the field and its advances in online education professional development the book offers instructors theoretical and practical suggestions for creating and teaching successful online courses and managing entire online technical communication programs This book was originally published as a special issue of Technical Communication Quarterly TCQ     The Times Index ,1997 Indexes the Times Sunday times and magazine Times literary supplement Times educational supplement Times educational supplement Scotland and the Times higher education supplement     Handbook of Research on Managing the Urban-Rural Divide Through an Inclusive Framework Popoola, Ayobami Abayomi,Magidimisha-Chipungu, Hangwelani Hope,Chipungu, Lovemore,2023-02-10 In recent years the growing disparities between rural and urban areas in developing countries have been a cause of major concern The rural urban gap remains the single most well documented development and welfare disparity in the developing world This gap can be seen in the low economic activities higher poverty levels and lower quality infrastructure and services in rural areas as opposed to urban areas While the magnitude of this rural urban divide is well documented very little has been documented about its impact on inclusive and sustainable urban development The Handbook of Research on Managing the Urban Rural Divide Through an Inclusive Framework aims to capture the spatial and socio economic divide between rural and urban areas and provides a road map to revamping the discussion that surrounds the urban rural sphere Covering key topics such as development food security and rural regions this premier reference source is ideal for policymakers government officials industry professionals researchers academicians practitioners scholars instructors and students     Community Geography Lyn Malone,Anita M.
