Dialogical Approaches and Tensions in Learning and Development Nathalie Muller Mirza, Marcelo Dos Santos Mamed, 2021-10-26 The book pursues the goal of exploring and strengthening a dialogical approach of communication and cognition It brings together contributions from world leading researchers related to the dialogical approach in education and psychology It presents among others the place of language and materiality in the development of communication and thinking as well as the role of the methods in the relationship between researchers and participants This leads to an innovative definition of the dialogicality and how a dialogical approach can provide heuristic conceptual and methodological tools to better understand how people think communicate and learn in a complex world The authors hereby develop an epistemological framework inspired by scholars such as Michael Bakhtin Lev Vygotsky and Herbert Mead under the assumption that dialogue or dialogicality and therefore the presence of the other is fundamentally entangled into the human thinking and development This book contributes to the understanding of human communication cognition and mind and participates in a scientific dialogue which helps to advance future research It includes theoretical and empirical chapters and presents innovative methods of inquiry which makes it a useful tool for both teaching and research The Routledge

Synchronous and Asynchronous Approaches to Teaching Payal Kumar, Jacob Eisenberg, 2023-07-25 This book examines synchronous and asynchronous teaching in light of the COVID 19 pandemic Within a few weeks millions of teachers found themselves forced to teach online often with little systematic preparation and in their own homes While this mode of teaching was earlier seen to be supplementary to brick and mortar classes online teaching has become pivotal to the classroom experience The chapter authors write of shared experiences that encapsulate the challenges faced by faculty students and also higher education institutions The book covers what worked what did not work and what had to be changed during the rapid shift to online synchronous and asynchronous teaching during the lockdowns Comprising both theoretical and practical perspectives this book provides one of the first authoritative analyses of the field while gathering lessons to be learned from the pandemic Dialogic Approaches to TESOL Shelley Wong, 2022-02-16 This book locates dialogic pedagogy within the history of TESOL approaches and methods in which the communicative approach has been the dominant paradigm Dialogic inquiry in the form of story telling oral histories and knowledge from the ground up and from the margins has much to offer the field In dialogic approaches the teacher and students learn in community and the students home languages and cultures their families and communities are seen as resources Dialogic Approaches to TESOL Where the Ginkgo Tree Grows explores teacher research feminist contributions to voice social identity and dialogic pedagogy and the role of teachers students families and communities as advocates and change agents After a brief history of TESOL methods and an introduction to dialogic pedagogy four features of dialogic approaches to TESOL are identified and discussed learning in community problem posing learning by doing and who does knowledge serve The main text in each chapter considers a single topic related to the concept of dialogic pedagogy Branching text leads to related discussions without losing the main point of the chapter This structure allows readers to become well rooted in each component of dialogic pedagogy and to branch out into deeper philosophic understandings as well as actual practices across a range of contexts Dialogic Approaches to TESOL offers a place for dialogue and reflection on the prospects for transforming educational institutions to serve those who have historically been excluded and marginalized It provides questions frameworks and resources for those who are just beginning in the field and for U S based educators who want to bring critical multicultural and multilingual perspectives into language arts reading and literacy education Research on Teaching Strategies and Skills in Different Educational Stages Pedro Gil-Madrona, Linda Saraiva, Luisa Losada-Puente, 2025-03-19 The teaching practice becomes a reciprocal activity in the classroom when teachers apply their creativity and their knowledge resulting from research and scientific evidence in the didactic teaching process with the purpose of strengthening in the students the key competencies of their training turning students at the core of the didactic process Teaching strategies must be articulated from previous research and planning and designed sequentially to promote real and interesting learning scenarios and thereby achieve significant learning From this perspective of teaching learning strategies the reciprocal interaction between the student and the teacher becomes the focus of attention with a playful motivating interesting and rewarding approach for the learner The role of the teacher is conceived as fundamental in the teaching process to achieve the link between teaching learning and evaluation strategies For this reason multidisciplinary studies are welcome from all stages of the educational system with quantitative qualitative and mixed approaches and reviews promoting good teaching practices of reflection and innovation from these studies

Dialogic Education and Technology Rupert Wegerif, 2007-10-13 Dialogic Education and Technology is about using new technology to draw people into the kind of dialogues which take them beyond themselves into learning thinking and creativity The program of research reported in this book reveals key characteristics of learning dialogues and demonstrates ways in which computers and networks can deepen enrich and expand such dialogues A dialogic perspective is developed drawing upon recent work in communications theory psychology computer science and philosophy This perspective foregrounds the creative space opened up by authentic dialogues Whereas studies of computer supported collaborative learning have tended to see dialogue as a means to the end of knowledge construction the dialogic perspective taken by this book sees dialogue as an end in itself in fact moving learners into the space of dialogue is described as the core aim of education The central argument of the book is that there is a convergence between this dialogic perspective in education and the affordances of new information and communications technology A genuinely dialogic perspective is relatively new to the field of educational technology and there is a considerable amount of interest in this topic amongst researchers who wish to see what extra insights if any a dialogical approach can offer them This is an exciting book that synthesizes clarifies and extends mounting discussions of dialogical thinking related to computer supported education It is not only a delightful personal statement but provokes thought on central issues of CSCL and enters into challenging dialog with the relevant alternative approaches As a result of reading this book I am convinced that we urgently need to open new online spaces for people to understandingly interact with different perspectives and creatively generate new insight and respect for difference

Gerry Stahl Executive Editor of the International Journal of Computer Supported Collaborative Learning This book offers a set of lenses which give deep insight into education and the use of technologies for learning The moves between empirical studies theoretical reflections and discussion of the design of learning environments make the book very thought provoking Ideas are not just treated as ideas but they become transformed into principles for design Wegerif is convincing that the use of technology for the creation maintaining and development of dialogical spaces has the potential for transforming and expanding educational experiences in a way which offers a needed vision of learning for the future

Disciplinary Intuitions and the Design of Learning Environments Kenneth Y. T. Lim,2014-10-19 As children we would have spilt glasses of milk dropped things and broken things As children therefore we would have developed intuitions about how the world works but we would not necessarily have been able to explain these workings It would only have been till we entered formal schooling that we would have learned codifications of canon within each respective discipline and consequently how to articulate the canon to explain the intuition The preceding example was from the natural sciences but one could just have easily taken an example from say the environmental sciences or from the social sciences Indeed much of this book does just that as it seeks to chart the territory of a new theory of learning around Disciplinary Intuitions Many of the chapters within draw frequent and explicit linkages to curriculum design from the premise of the need to go beyond addressing the conceptions of learners to seeking to understand the substrate upon which these conceptions are founded The argument is made that this substrate comprises the particular set of lived experiences of each learner and how because these lived experiences are as tacit as they are diverse designing curriculum around misconceptions and preconceptions alone would not lead to enduring understanding from first principles From this perspective Disciplinary Intuitions constitute an exciting field at the nexus of learning theories and curriculum design
