

But forgot and remembered too late--
 Little praises unspoken, little promises broken,
 And all of the thousand and one
 Little duties neglected that might have perfected
 The days of one less fortunate.

1. grieves: to feel very sad about something
2. shabby: torn, worn, in poor condition
3. neglected: failed to care for something

3. What is this poem about? This poem is about all the small things we don't do but we know we should. It also talks about the regret we feel afterwards when we realize that we forgot to do all the little things that might have had some big impacts later.

4. What is the speaker's tone? The poet is speaking with grief and regret. She talks about her intimate feelings and how sorrowful and remorseful she feels about this subject.

Explain your answer using textual evidence.

The text shows that the author feels very regretful of all the things she didn't do. She wishes there existed a "Land of Beginning Again" because she once thought all the little things like "praises" and "little promises" were insignificant, that's why she didn't heed them of much importance but ended up regretting her choice later. And that's how we can analyze that the tone of this poem is sad and dispirited.

(The textual evidence is highlighted)

Answer the questions below.

1. What is the poem about? The poem is about the speaker's regret for not doing the little things that might have made a difference in her life. She wishes there existed a "Land of Beginning Again" where she could start over and do the things she neglected.	2. What is the speaker's tone? The speaker's tone is sad and dispirited. She feels regretful and sorrowful about the things she neglected to do.
