A Matter of Dignity Andrew Potok,2008-12-10 From A Matter of Dignity I realized that I needed to learn about the legislative and legal aspects of disability as much as I did about our feelings regarding wholeness beauty and ugliness about the state called normalcy about liberating technologies and therapies about the role of the disabled in history and literature And what could better inform and enlighten me than contact with people who help create access who elicit change via care support teaching and study as their life s work As it turned out I have learned from them that in spite of the American addiction to youthfulness normalcy virility activity and physical beauty diversity in all its forms provides not only fascination but strength Diversity tends toward higher forms uniformity toward dullness and extinction What could make more sense than to value all that is diverse unexpected and exuberantly impure

Disability, Liberation, and Development Peter Coleridge,1993-01-01 Disabled people are marginalized in every country of the world both North and South By probing these prejudices and studying cases where they have been overcome this book provides an insight into the processes of liberation and empowerment

Where There is No Psychiatrist Vikram Patel,2003 Even though mental illnesses are common and cause great suffering in every part of the world many health workers have a limited understanding about mental health and are less comfortable dealing with mental illness This book is a practical manual for mental health care for the community health worker the primary care nurse the social worker and the primary care doctor particularly in developing countries After giving the reader a basic understanding of mental illness the book goes on to describe more than 30 clinical problems associated with mental illness and uses a problem solving approach to guide the reader through their assessment and management Mental health issues as they arise in specific health care contexts are described for example in a refugee camp a school health programme or with people suffering from AIDS as well as in mental health promotion The final section combines quick reference information for common problems and it also includes chapters for the reader to personalise the manual for a particular location for example by entering local information on voluntary agencies the names and costs of medicines and words in the local language for emotional symptoms Resources in Education ,1988

Gandhian Model of Development and World Peace R. P. Misra,1989

Inclusive Education in Low-Income Countries McConkey, Roy,2014-04-03 The history of people with disabilities has been dominated by their isolation and exclusion The long fight towards inclusion and inclusive education in particular started not many years ago Most were powerless to control their own destiny Their participation in society has been the object of others actions In many countries their disability policies have a substantial element of protection and charity but not the right to equalisation of opportunities This book highlights the process of change that is underway internationally The equalisation of opportunities requires new processes through which the various systems of society such as health services and education are delivered It means the right for people with disabilities to remain in their communities and to receive the schooling and social supports they need within the ordinary structures available in local communities Strong advocacy is needed for this to happen In particular parents need to be empowered communities mobilised and professionals trained in new ways of working hence this book Drawing on experiences in Africa the book describes the issues to be considered when it comes to implementing inclusive strategies the processes to be followed and the roles of different sectors such as people with disabilities parents policy makers educationalists health and community development professionals and crucially society at large

Neuropsychotherapy and Community Integration Tedd Judd,2012-12-06 The first time I walked onto a neurology ward during my graduate training I was shocked much as family members of people with brain illnesses probably are I had learned a great deal in class about aphasia amnesia agnosia apraxia and other cognitive disorders but I had not been prepared for the behavioral disorders I was to encounter for the severe physical disabilities for the indignities of the patient role Bit by bit I overcame this shock I learned to look people in the eye who seemed to have more tubes than the New York subway system people whose faces had been scraped off the pavement and who were drooling incontinent and severely dysarthric I learned to see beyond what frightened and repulsed me to the human beings within I wish I could say that I saw in each person a deep human soul yearning to breathe free and to love an essence an intrinsic goodness a wholeness I did not Rather it seems like each and every unique element of human behavior one s abilities and one s desires can be destroyed by some brain lesion while leaving a uniquely human person behind Not only are there losses but behaviors emerge at times that are not seen in people with intact brains but which still reveal a human attempting to cope I do feel that I saw and still see in each such person something intrinsically human but not the same thing in each      Global Infections and Child Health, An Issue of Pediatric Clinics of North America James P. Nataro, 2017-08-01 Children in developing countries continue to be susceptible to infectious and non infectious disorders that lead to growth retardation cognitive impairment and high infant and childhood mortality Clinical epidemiologic and pathogenetic studies are providing opportunities to intervene against these disorders as never before In this issue international experts in child health offer their perspectives on the problems of greatest import to the health of children growing up in impoverished environments Opportunities for research and intervention are particularly emphasized Articles are specifically devoted to the following topics Child Health and Survival in a Changing World Childhood Nutrition and Growth Children with Disabilities in the Developing Nations The Burden of Enteropathy and Subclinical Infections Malaria in Children The Unholy Trinity Nematode Infections in Developing Countries The Burden and Etiology of Diarrheal Illness in Developing Countries Intestinal Protozoal Infections Pneumonia and Respiratory Infections Primary Bacteremia and Meningitis in Developing Countries Neonatal and Perinatal Infections HIV in Developing Countries and Tuberculosis in Children
