Chapter 1-Answer Key

CONCEPT CHECK

1.1 What is the hydrologic cycle? What are the pathways that precipitation falling onto the land surface of the Earth is dispersed to the hydrologic cycle?

ANSWER:

The hydrologic cycle is a continuous process in which water is evaporated from water surfaces and the oceans, moves inland as moist air masses, and produces precipitation if the correct vertical lifting conditions exist.

A portion of precipitation (rainfall) is retained in the soil near where it falls and returns to the atmosphere via evaporation (the conversion of water to water vapor from a water surface) and transpiration (the loss of water vapor through plant tissue and leaves). Combined loss is called evapotranspiration and is a maximum value if the water supply in the soil is adequate at all times. Some water enters the soil system in infiltration which is a function of soil moisture conditions and soil and may reenter channels later as interflow or may percolate to recharge the shallow ground water. The remaining portion of precipitation becomes overland flow or direct runoff which flows generally in a down-gradient direction to accumulate in local streams that then flow into rivers.
