

SEPHORA PESTLE ANALYSIS

POLITICAL

- Animal Testing: Being a beauty and cosmetic brand, it is normal for companies like Sephora to do animal testing, but European countries have banned such products. So, Sephora cannot sell any animal-tested products in these countries.
- FDA approval: Launching products in any new market, which is related to the human body in any way, like medicines and beauty products, needs FDA approval, and without those, Sephora cannot launch its products anywhere.

ECONOMIC

- Market Price: The market price of any product is primarily based on two essential factors, the first the cost of production, and the second is the price point.
- Price Point: Sephora needs to know the price point, which is the point where demand and supply become similar to have the highest profit.

SOCIAL

- Brand value: The company's brand value will increase if the customers and probable customers are happy with their products. Hence, Sephora needs to ensure they have the best quality cosmetic products so that their customers and non-customers think they are the epitome of any cosmetic product.
- Targeted marketing: Stereotypically, and with the help of data acquired from statistics, one can say that the niche using cosmetic products are all females. Therefore, it is safe to say that Sephora needs to put in more effort to attract female and probable customers to their cosmetic products.

TECHNOLOGICAL

- Social media presence: Companies like Sephora have heavy competition in the market. Companies like ULTA, Lush, and Nordstrom are big names in the beauty industry. These companies also have an active presence on social media. So, to compete with them, Sephora needs to make it more visible on social media.
- Mobile application: Nothing can draw more attention to a business than having a personalized mobile app. People in this age are more prone to order stuff online. They also prefer to know more about the company from a mobile app. Another reason why Sephora became the giant is its easy accessibility to its customers through its app.

LEGAL

- Intellectual Property Index: While deciding where and in which country a company should invest, one of the significant factors that one should look into is the Protection of Intellectual Property Rights. IPR ensures that the owner or inventor of a particular product has the right to protect its creation for a specific time.

ENVIRONMENTAL

- Use of renewable energy: Sephora is a well-known name in the US market when the question is about renewable resource usage. It is also a known fact that Sephora has been an EPA Green Power Partner for quite a few years now.
- Eco-friendly practices: In an age and time where our world is struggling to hold on to its safe environment, it is natural that humans are trying to get more conscious of their actions toward environmental preservation.
