Teenagers' Perspectives on the Role of Religion in their Lives, Schools and Societies. A European Quantitative Study Pille Valk, Gerdien Bertram-Troost, Markus Friederici, Céline Béraud, 2009 Religion is on the European agenda again The secularisation paradigm has lost its explanatory power and the newly coined term post secularism is used to describe the realisation that in the current social transformation religion cannot be ignored any longer The quantitative study presented in this book is part of the research effort by the REDCo project

REDCo is the abbreviation for Religion in Education A contribution to Dialogue or a Factor of Conflict in Transforming Societies of European Countries The project brought together nine research teams from eight European countries England Estonia France Germany The Netherlands Norway Russia and Spain The research involved interdisciplinary cooperation between specialists in the different academic fields of education religious education sociology political science anthropology psychology theology and religious studies The book offers valuable interpretations and inspirations on the question how the students in the 14 16 year age group in Europe see the ir relevance of religions for dialogue and conflict in their daily lives in the school environment and in society as a whole The young respondents of the quantitative study are clearly aware that the diversity of religious and non religious worldviews is the reality of the European contexts they have to manage within Most of them are convinced that religion must be addressed in schools as it is too important as factor in social life and for the coexistence of people from different cultural and religious backgrounds throughout Europe to be ignored

Testing the Untestable in Language Education Amos Paran,Lies Sercu,2010 The testing and assessment of language competence continues to be a much debated issue in foreign language teaching and research This book is the first one to address the testing of four important dimensions of foreign language education which have been left largely unconsidered learner autonomy intercultural competence literature and literary competence and the integration of content and language learning Each area is considered through a theoretical framework followed by two empirical studies raising questions of importance to all language teachers How can one test literary competence Can intercultural competence be measured What about the integrated assessment of content and language in CLIL and teaching Is progress in autonomous learning skill gaugeable The book constitutes essential reading for anyone interested in the testing and assessment of seemingly largely untestable aspects of foreign language competence The title of this book is well chosen Despite the apparent oxymoron this collection of papers succeeds in addressing important issues of educational policy and theory with the precision born of empirical work combined with discussion of principles This book will open new options for testers for teachers and for those who make policy decisions Michael Byram School of Education University of Durham UK

The Space and Power of Young People's Social Relationships Louise Holt,2024-03-14 The book examines the power of young people s social relationships in schools to transform or more often to continue differences that pervade societies mind body emotional diff erences or Special Educational Needs and Disability gender poverty race ethnicity sexuality and their intersections The book details extensive qualitative research with young people foregrounding their accounts In challenging educators and others to engage with young people s own agencies and to make space for their socialities the concepts of embodied social and emotional capital and young people as contextual bodies subjectivities agencies are developed emphasising both young people s agencies and how these are socio spatially situated constrained and enabled The book is most concerned with how and when young people challenge and change enduring differences The concept of immersive geographies outlines the potential of change inherent in the repeated coming together of the same people in space doing similar things that are however always provisional and always with the potential to be done diff erently Examples of when diff erence is transformed are presented The book marks a major interdisciplinary contribution to geographies and social studies of children youth and education child development social work social policy and education studies Furthermore it is of appeal to anyone interested in young people social reproduction and sociality from educators policy makers youth workers and social workers to parents

been described as a hazardous profession and teacher educators are faced with a challenging task in preparing teachers for the future Human rights are high on the international agenda but also have direct implications for teachers and students in the classroom Originally published in 1996 this book brings together teacher education and human rights to examine how we might best educate children and young people for citizenship Drawing on case studies from the UK Europe and internationally the authors provide practical suggestions for ways in which teachers can increase young people s awareness of the importance of securing their rights and those of others in the community Looking particularly at how teachers might challenge injustice racism and xenophobia they examine human rights as a basis for educational policies and discuss how international human rights instruments can be incorporated into the teacher education curriculum The book will benefit teacher trainers teachers and education policy makers concerned with race gender and special needs undergraduate and postgraduate student teachers and educational researchers

Library of Congress Subject Headings Library of Congress,1993 Gender and the Spatiality of Blackness in Contemporary AfroFrench Narratives Polo B. Moji,2022-03-29 This book approaches the study of AfroEurope through narrative forms produced in contemporary France a location which richly illustrates race in European spaces The book adopts a transdisciplinary lens that combines critical black and urban geographies intersectional feminism and textual analysis to explore the spatial negotiations of black women in France It assesses literature film and music as narrative forms and engages with the sociocultural and political contexts from which they emerge Through the figure of the black fl neuse and the analytical framework of walking as method the book goes beneath spectacular representations of ghettoised banlieues televised protests and shipwrecked migrants to analyse the spatiality of blackness in the everyday It argues that the material discursive framing of black fl nerie as both relational and embodied movements renders visible a politics of place embedded in everyday micro struggles of raced sexed subjects Foregrounding expressive modes and forms that have traditionally received little critical attention outside of the French and francophone world this book will be relevant to academics researchers writers students activists and readers with interests in Literary and Cultural Studies African and Afrodiasporic Studies Black Feminisms Migration Studies Critical Black Geographies Francophone Studies and the comparative framework of Afroeuropean Studies
