that simultaneous equation models are the best vehicle for EBCR if all its goals are to be attained simultaneously This conclusion is based on a fairly detailed assessment of the methods and is not over turned in the empirical illustrations The main conclusion does not imply the end of other EBCR methods Not all goals have to be met with a single vehicle other methods might serve the purpose equally well or even better For example if one is interested in business cycle forecasts one might prefer a business cycle indicator or vector autoregressive system A second conclusion is that many ideas concepts that play an important role in current discussions about econometric methodology in general and EBCR in particular were put forward in the 1930s and 1940s A third conclusion is that it is difficult if not impossible to compare the outcomes of RBC models to outcomes of the other three methods because RBC modellers are not interested in modelling business cycles on an observation per observation basis A more general conclusion in this respect is that methods should adopt the same concept of business cycles to make them comparable
