Bullard, 2018-04-17 On August 29 2005 Hurricane Katrina made landfall near New Orleans leaving death and destruction across the Louisiana Mississippi and Alabama Gulf Coast counties The lethargic and inept emergency response that followed exposed institutional flaws poor planning and false assumptions that are built into the emergency response and homeland security plans and programs Questions linger What went wrong Can it happen again Is our government equipped to plan for mitigate respond to and recover from natural and manmade disasters Can the public trust government response to be fair Does race matter Racial disparities exist in disaster response cleanup rebuilding reconstruction and recovery Race plays out in natural disaster survivors ability to rebuild replace infrastructure obtain loans and locate temporary and permanent housing Generally low income and people of color disaster victims spend more time in temporary housing shelters trailers mobile homes and hotels and are more vulnerable to permanent displacement Some temporary homes have not proved to be that temporary In exploring the geography of vulnerability this book asks why some communities get left behind economically spatially and physically before and after disasters strike Tuition Tax Relief Bills: Oral testimony United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Finance. Subcommittee on Taxation and Debt Management Generally, 1978 Tuition Tax Relief Bills United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Finance. Subcommittee on Taxation and Debt Management Generally, 1978 Massive Resistance and Southern Womanhood Rebecca Brückmann, 2021 Massive Resistance and Southern Womanhood offers a comparative sociocultural and spatial history of white supremacist women who were active in segregationist grassroots activism in Little Rock New Orleans and Charleston from the late 1940s to the late 1960s Through her examination Rebecca Brückmann uncovers and evaluates the roles actions self understandings and media representations of segregationist women in massive resistance in urban and metropolitan settings Brückmann argues that white women were motivated by an everyday culture of white supremacy and they created performative spaces for their segregationist agitation in the public sphere to legitimize their actions. While other studies of mass resistance have focused on maternalism, Brckmann shows that women's invocation of motherhood was varied and primarily served as a tactical tool to continuously expand these women's spaces. Through this examination, she differentiates the circumstances, tactics, and representations used in the creation of performative spaces by working class, middle class, and elite women engaged in massive resistance. Brckmann focuses on the transgressive street politics of working class female activists in Little Rock and New Orleans that contrasted with the more traditional political actions of segregationist middle class and elite women in Charleston who aligned white supremacist agitation with long standing experience in conservative women's clubs including the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Daughters of the American Revolution. Working class women's groups chose consciously transgressive strategies including violence to elicit shock, value, and create states of emergency to further legitimize their actions and push for white supremacy.
