

Vitruvius Crucifixus: Architecture, Mimesis and the Death Instinct¹

Illustration 1. Vitruvian Man within a square by Cesariano, taken from Vitruvius, De Architectura, Como, 1521.

The comments made by Vitruvius on the subject of proportions have proved to be highly influential within the history of architectural theory. They have provided the grounding for much subsequent theoretical work on the relationship between buildings and the human body. The tradition of relating the layout of temples and churches to the form of the body is captured explicitly in the drawings of Francesco di Giorgio, where the ghost-like figure of a human body is quite literally mapped onto the plans and elevations of buildings. It is these drawings, along with those of Fra Giocondo, Cesariano, Leonardo da Vinci and others, that Rudolf Wittkower addresses in his discussion of proportions in his seminal work on the centralised church of the early Italian Renaissance (Wittkower, 1962). Joseph Rykwert and John Onians, among others, have continued the tradition of ¹This paper could not have been completed without the inspiration and assistance of many colleagues. In particular, I am grateful for the help and advice of Yvonne Derratt, who has already made the argument for a link between narcissism, mimesis and the death instinct (see M. Phil. thesis, University of Cambridge). I am also grateful to Matt Connell, with whom the initial ideas for this paper were first discussed.

Intersections Iain Borden, Jane Rendell, 2000 Intersections represents a newly emergent approach to the history of architecture that addresses both the relevance of critical theories to an historical understanding of architecture and the development of those theories

German Façade Design Randall Ott, 2016-09-17 German architecture prior to the modern period has received less systemic analytical study than that of Italy France and Britain Scholarly discussion of broad traditions or continuities within Germanic or Central European façade design is even sparser Baroque era studies of the region mostly devote themselves to isolated architects monuments or movements Modernism's advent decisively changed this Germanic architecture enjoyed sudden ascendancy Yet even so study specifically of that region's façades still lagged nothing compares to the dozens of treatments of Le Corbusier's façade systems for example and how these juxtapose with French neoclassical or Italian Renaissance methods Given the paucity of multi period studies one can be forgiven for believing Germany's effervescence of radical modern works seems unprecedented This book takes up these multiple quandaries It identifies and documents a previously unrecognized compositional tradition characterized here as the screen façade and posits it as a counter narrative critiquing the essentialist authentic canon currently dominant in Western architectural history By crossing evenly over the dividing line between the historical and modern periods it offers valuable insights on indigenous roots underlying some aspects of Germany's invigorating early twentieth century architectural developments The book chronologically examines 400 years of closely related facades concentrated in Germany but also found in Austria the Czech Republic German speaking Switzerland and nearby areas of Central Europe While nearly 75 buildings are mentioned and illustrated a dozen are given extensive analysis and the book focuses on the works of three architects Schinkel Behrens and Mies Relationships between examples of these three architects' façades far transcend mere homage amongst masters Glimmers of the system they eventually codify are apparent as early as at Heidelberg Castle in 1559 and Nürnberg's Rathaus in 1622 The book argues that in Germany northern Gothic affinities for bisection intense repetition and rote aggregation intersected with southern Classical affinities for symmetry hierarchy and centrality thereby spawning a unique hybrid product the screen Instead of graphic formality this study is guided by on site perceptions propositional contrasts means of approach interpretive conflicts and emotion and it relates the design of these façades to concepts proposed by contemporary philosophers including Novalis Hegel Nietzsche Freud Adorno and most importantly Gadamer on hermeneutics

Das Christusbild in der Gegenwart - eine Leerstelle auf dem Weg zu einer neuen Anschaulichkeit? Thomas Erne, Malte Dominik Krüger, Anna Niemeck, 2022-01-27 Das Bild hat in der evangelischen Theologie eine erstaunliche Karriere gemacht Hinter dem gesteigerten Interesse am Bild steht die Frage ob und wie die Bibel noch eine Brücke in das gegenwärtige religiöse Bewusstsein schlagen kann und wie eine Bildlehre des Glaubens zu durchdenken ist Aber die Fragen die eine Bildlehre im Horizont des Unbedingten aufwirft lassen sich nicht allein im innertheologischen Diskurs l

Levin,2014-07-31 Performing Ground explores camouflage as a performance practice arguing that the act of blending into one s environment is central to the ways we negotiate our identities through space The book offers a critically rich investigation of how the performative practice of camouflage renders the politics of space power and gender in visible

Architecture and the Mimetic Self Lucy Huskinson,2018-02-02 Buildings shape our identity and sense of self in profound ways that are not always evident to architects and town planners or even to those who think they are intimately familiar with the buildings they inhabit Architecture and the Mimetic Self provides a useful theoretical guide to our unconscious behaviour in relation to buildings and explains both how and why we are drawn to specific elements and features of architectural design It reveals how even the most uninspiring of buildings can be modified to meet our unconscious expectations and requirements of them and by the same token it explores the repercussions for our wellbeing when buildings fail to do so Criteria for effective architectural design have for a long time been grounded in utilitarian and aesthetic principles of function efficiency cost and visual impact Although these are important considerations they often fail to meet the fundamental needs of those who inhabit and use buildings Misconceptions are rife not least because our responses to architecture are often difficult to measure and are in large part unconscious By bridging psychoanalytic thought and architectural theory Architecture and the Mimetic Self frees the former from its preoccupations with interpersonal human relations to address the vital relationships that we establish with our nonhuman environments In addition to providing a guide to the unconscious behaviours that are most relevant for evaluating architectural design this book explains how our relationships with the built environment inform a more expansive and useful psychoanalytic theory of human relationship and identity It will appeal to psychoanalysts and analytical psychologists architects and all who are interested in the overlaps of psychology architecture and the built environment Walter Benjamin and Architecture Gevork Hartoonian,2009-10-27

The essays compiled in this book explore aspects of Walter Benjamin s discourse that have contributed to the formation of contemporary architectural theories Issues such as technology and history have been considered central to the very modernity of architecture but Benjamin s reflection on these subjects has elevated the discussion to a critical level The contributors in this book consider Walter Benjamin s ideas in the context of digitalization of architecture where it is the very technique itself that determines the processes of design and the final form This book was published as a special issue of Architectural Theory Review Space-Body-Ritual Reena Tiwari,2010-05-12 Set against the contemporary thinking of the city as a spectacle Space Body Ritual Performativity in the City establishes everyday life in the city as a ground for authentic experience Reena Tiwari emphasizes the city as a space of lived experience an intricately layered space giving people a poetic experience responding to their memories and desires She also explores the conflict between two ideas the idea of the city as text to be read and understood from a distance and the city as body where the body after writing the text through its performance achieves the capacity to read and understand it Space Body Ritual demonstrates that the abstract seeing embedded in the city as a text is underwritten by the idea of power operating at deeper levels in the city This hidden power is the power of the user's body in space Furthermore Tiwari proposes that an understanding of the city as body through lived experience through rhythm analysis where rhythms of everyday and extra everyday practices are understood leads to the design of an environment that is evocative and is able to generate a bodily response from the user To understand the rhythms it becomes essential to know the way users inhabit understand and map or present the city spaces by their bodies Space Body Ritual will compel its readership to think of the parameters of spatial design as cultural generator

With(Out) Trace: Interdisciplinary Investigations into Time, Space and the Body Simon Dwyer, Rachel Franks, Reina Green, 2019-07-22 This volume was first published by Inter Disciplinary Press in 2015 This book With out Trace Inter Disciplinary Investigations into Time Space and the Body unpacks many of the issues that surround the idea of trace what we intentionally an unintentionally leave behind as well as how trace can help us to move forward In particular this volume looks at how an interdisciplinary approach can suggest new ways of seeing and subsequently exploring interconnections between time space and the body The papers within this work accomplish more than tracing a theme a theory or discipline within the study of time space and the body Moreover the collection does not simply trace past debates about the relationship between the three Indeed the interdisciplinarity of this collection will it is hoped suggest other ways of seeing the field and of tracing new paths through it Exploring those new perspectives and new paths will undoubtedly enrich future thinking about the interconnections between time space and the body

Sidewalking David L. Ulin, 2015-10-06. In Sidewalking David L. Ulin offers a compelling inquiry into the evolving landscape of Los Angeles. Part personal narrative, part investigation of the city as both idea and environment. Sidewalking is many things: a discussion of Los Angeles as urban space, a history of the city's built environment, a meditation on the author's relationship to the city, and a rumination on the art of urban walking. Exploring Los Angeles through the soles of his feet, Ulin gets at the experience of its street life, drawing from urban theory, pop culture, and literature. For readers interested in the culture of Los Angeles, this book offers a pointed look beneath the surface in order to see and engage with the city on its own terms.

Contemporary Art About Architecture Nora Wendl, 2017-07-05. An important resource for scholars of contemporary art and architecture, this volume considers contemporary art that takes architecture as its subject. Concentrated on works made since 1990, Contemporary Art About Architecture: A Strange Utility is the first to take up this topic in a sustained and explicit manner and the first to advance the idea that contemporary art functions as a form of architectural history, theory, and analysis. Over the course of fourteen essays by both emerging and established scholars, this volume examines a diverse group of artists in conjunction with the vernacular, canonical, and fantastical structures engaged by their work. I Mangano, Ovalle, Matthew Barney, Monika Sosnowska, Pip Nguyen Duy, and Paul Pfeiffer are among those considered, as are the compelling questions of architecture's relationship to photography, the evolving legacy of Mies van der Rohe, the notion of an architectural unconscious, and the provocative concepts of the unbuilt and the unbuildable. Through a rigorous investigation of these issues, Contemporary Art About Architecture calls attention to the fact that art is now a vital form of architectural discourse. Indeed, this phenomenon is both pervasive and, in its individual incarnations, compelling, a reason to think again about the entangled histories of architecture and art.

Digital Poetics Marjan Colletti, 2017-03-02. Digital Poetics celebrates the architectural design exuberance made possible by new digital modelling techniques and fabrication technologies. By presenting an unconventional and original humanistic theory of CAD computer-aided design, the author suggests that beyond the generation of innovative engineering forms, digital design has the potential to affect the wider, complex cultural landscape of today in profound ways. The book is organised around a synthetic and hybrid research methodology a contemporary propositional and theoretical discursive investigation and a design led empirical research Both methods inform a critical construct that deals with the nature forms and laws of digitality within a contemporary architectural discourse that affects practice and academia The chapters spiral at from towards around outside inwards and back inside out digitality its cognitive phenomena spatial properties and intrinsic capabilities to achieve or at least approach Digital Poetics The book presents speculative and small scale constructed projects that pioneer techniques and experiments with common 3D and 4D software packages whereby the focus lies not on the drawing processes and mechanics but on the agency and impact the image its reading experience interpretation achieves on the reader and observer The book also features a preface by Fr d ric Migayrou a philosopher and curator and one of the most influential cultural engineers of the contemporary international architectural scene The book is linked to a website which contains a larger selection of images of some featured projects The Hieroglyphics of Space Neil Leach,2005-06-29 An edited volume containing contributions from eminent theorists across visual culture architecture sociology art philosophy and US studies including Andrew Benjamin Barry Curtis Neil Leach Steven Pile and David Frisby The X-Files and Literature Sharon R.
