Parliament. House of Lords. Select Committee on Economic Affairs, 2008 Immigration has become highly significant to the UK economy immigrants comprise 12 per cent of the total workforce The Committee found no evidence for the argument made by the Government business and others that net immigration generates significant economic benefits for the existing UK population The Committee criticises use of GDP as a criterion for assessing the economic impacts of immigration on the UK The total size of an economy is not an index of prosperity The focus of analysis should be on the effects of immigration on income per head of the resident population and theory and the available empirical evidence indicate that these effects are small The economic impacts of immigration depend critically on the skills of immigrants The Committee does not support the general claims that net immigration is indispensable to fill labour and skills shortages and also questions the Government's claim that immigration has generated fiscal benefits Rising population density has potentially important economic consequences for the resident population including impacts on housing as well as wider welfare effects especially where immigrants are most concentrated Immigration does exert a significant impact on the housing market in particular areas Data on immigration and immigrants in the UK and those leaving the country are inadequate The Committee recommends the Government should improve radically the immigration statistics review immigration policies and explain the reasons and objectives better enforce the minimum wage clarify the objectives and implications of the new points based immigration system monitor immigration by publishing regular reports on the numbers and characteristics of immigrants further consider which channels of immigration should lead to settlement and citizenship review the implications of its projection of net immigration of 190 000 a year

Securities Forum '95 ,1995      Adoption Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Select Committee on Adoption Legislation,2013-03-06 The Government's focus on driving up the number of adoptions should not be delivered at the expense of other routes to permanence such as special guardianship or kinship care for children for whom adoption may not be suitable The Committee is also concerned that there is a significant lack of information about rates of adoption breakdown The most pressing issue is that of post adoption support Children adopted from care have a range of needs due to their early life experiences often of abuse or neglect which are not resolved simply by being adopted There should be a statutory duty on local authorities and other service commissioning bodies to ensure the provision of post adoption support Cost concerns need to take into account the significant amount of money which local authorities save when a child is adopted from care The drive to increase adoptions must also not undermine preventative programmes and efforts to keep birth families together The Committee also recommends a pilot scheme offering support to families who have had children removed from their care Other recommendations from the Committee include encouraging more local authorities to move towards joint adoption services with neighbouring authorities and adoption agencies ending the current practice of employing Independent Reviewing Officers IROs within local authorities and instead employing them externally giving them the independence needed to promote the best interests of children providing a designated teacher with responsibility for the wellbeing for adopted children within every school and improving the training and supervision of social workers      List of the Streets and Places Within the Administrative County of London ... London County Council,1929      The Greening of London, 1920-2000 Matti O. Hannikainen,2017-05-15 The long term development of public green spaces such as parks public gardens and recreation grounds in London during the twentieth century is a curiously neglected subject despite the fact that various kinds of green spaces cover huge areas in cities in the UK today This book explores how and why public green spaces have been created and used in London and what actors have been involved in their evolution during the course of the twentieth century Building on case studies of the contemporary boroughs of Camden and Southwark and making use of a wealth of archival material the author takes us through the planning and creation stages to the intended and actual uses and ongoing management of the spaces By highlighting the rise and fall of municipal authorities and the impact of neo liberalism after the 1970s the book also deepens our understanding of how London has been governed planned and ruled during the twentieth century It makes a crucial contribution to academic as well as political discourse on the history and present role of green space in sustainable cities
