Empathic Space Christian Derix, Åsmund Izaki, 2014-10-27 In recent years questions of space have gained renewed momentum in architecture and urban design as adaptation densification and sustainable regeneration have become an increasing priority While most computing based design tends to emphasise the formal aspects of architecture overlooking space and its users the original computational design approaches first spearheaded in the UK in the 1960s and 1970s tended to be focused on behavioural and occupational patterns Over the last decade a new generation of design research has emerged that has started to implement and validate previous investigations into spatial computation aiming to understand how to design spatial configurations based on user experiences This revives an interest in the experiential that was first explored in the early 20th century by German and Nordic organic architects who invented design methods that correlated cognitive responses of buildings occupants to spatial structure The current revival of human centric design however represents the first design approach that synthesises spatial design and algorithmic techniques with organic design thinking which could also be regarded as a return to the first principles of architectural design Contributors include Paul Coates Christian Derix Olafur Eliasson Lucy Helme Bill Hillier Åsmund Izaki Prarthana Jagannath Dan Montello Juhani Pallasmaa Philip Steadman and Guy Theraulaz Featured Architects Designers Jussi Nageslev Art Com Stan Allen Aedas R D Markus Braach Kaisersrot Hermann Hertzberger Kazuhiro Kojima Cat Pablo Miranda and Rafi Segal Creating Great Places Debra Flanders Cushing, Evonne Miller, 2019-10-16 This book provides a bold vision and roadmap for creating great places Imagining and designing urban environments where all people thrive is an extraordinary task and in this compelling narrative Cushing and Miller remind us that theory is a powerful starting point Drawing on international research illustrated case studies personal experiences as well as fascinating examples from history and pop culture this practical book provides the reader with inspiration guidance and tools The first section outlines six critical theories for contemporary urban design affordance prospect refuge personal space sense of place genius loci place attachment and biophilic design The second section using their innovative theory storming process demonstrates how designers can create great places that are inclusive sustainable and salutogenic Creating Great Places is an insightful compelling and evidence based resource for readers who want to design urban environments that inspire excite and positively transform people's lives Design for Health Terri Peters, 2017-04-06 Design for Health Sustainable Approaches to Therapeutic Architecture Guest Edited by Terri Peters This issue of AD seeks out innovative and varied sustainable architectural responses to designing for health such as integrating sensory gardens and landscapes into the care environment specifying local materials and passive technologies and

High Definition, 2014-03-14 A pioneering title High Definition explores the onslaught of new and highly accurate digital metrology tools in large and small scale 3 D scanning and 3 D modelling Capable of measuring space to an accuracy of less than 1 mm these tools offer unprecedented precision for the development and interrogation of design before during and post production Over the last decade or so the array of designers digital tools to propose and make their ideas have evolved significantly but the absence of high accuracy zero tolerance design production has often remained the missing piece between design and fulfilment Innovative technologies are thus substantially recalibrating the way that designers operate in the world between the drawn and the made having the power to transform the architect's role from that of visualiser to one that is intensely involved with the realisation of objects and buildings High Definition will examine the capabilities of advanced technologies in design production through their impact on design theory practice and greater levels of collaboration between design and manufacturing. It will permeate the entangled world between means and meaning and unravel a new understanding between the representation and production of architectural design. Housing Design for an Increasingly Older Population Victor Regnier, 2018-08-06 Longer lifespans and the needs of the oldest old are challenging the senior living industry to find bold and compassionate solutions to combine programs and services with housing. Victor Regnier's latest research provides a thoughtful and insightful roadmap that arrays new ways of thinking from small scale settings to community based options. International case studies offer possible solutions with the best thinking from around the globe, all with Vic's unique perspective of extracting themes and concepts that are broadly applicable and essential to addressing the needs of those that live on life's fragile edge.

David Hoglund, FAIA Supporting the independence of the oldest old is a tough problem Victor Regnier addresses in his latest book on aging and housing. Like previous work, Victor relies on the best practices of northern Europeans to outline a three prong approach: First, providing extremely comprehensive home care services in an apartment for life setting. Second, reforming the conventional nursing home by exploring small group style accommodations. Third, combining new technology with community based services to age in place. Case studies document the experiences of others in making these programs work here and abroad. The magnitude of the 90 and 100 population increases in the next 50 years make it clear how important it is to address this concern today.

Edward Steinfeld, DArch The movement of health care from the institution to the home is a theme that Regnier identifies as one of the most important lessons in rethinking the issue of how to support the ever growing and increasingly aged older population here and abroad. He examines simple but profound approaches we can take in making long term care a more humane proposition. Familiar themes like humanizing technology and optimizing the impact of the natural environment are brought together with clear policy thinking about what we need to do. The timing is good because the impact of this growing segment of society will have major repercussions on health care for the next 50-70 years.
