Art offers fresh perspectives on the sculptural object by relating it to both surrealist concerns with chance and the crucial role of photography in framing the everyday This collection of essays questions the nature of sculptural practice looking to forms of production and reproduction that blur the boundaries between things that are made and things that are found One of the book's central themes is the interplay of presence and absence in sculpture as it is highlighted disrupted or multiplied through photography's indexical nature The essays examine the surrealist three dimensional object its relation to and transformation through photographs as well as the enduring legacies of such concerns for the artwork's materiality and temporality in performance and conceptual practices from the 1960s through the present Found Sculpture and Photography sheds new light on the shifts in status of the art object challenging the specificity of visual practices pursuing a radical interrogation of agency in modern and contemporary practices and exploring the boundaries between art and everyday life

Unfinished Business Judith Hamera, 2017-10-02 How does structural economic change look and feel How are such changes normalized Who represents hope Who are the cautionary tales Unfinished Business argues that U.S. deindustrialization cannot be understood apart from issues of race and specifically apart from images of and works by and about African Americans that represent or resist normative or aberrant relationships to work and capital in transitional times It insists that Michael Jackson's performances and coverage of his life plays featuring Detroit plans for the city's postindustrial revitalization and Detroit installations The Heidelberg Project and Mobile Homestead have something valuable to teach us about three decades of structural economic transition in the U.S. particularly about the changing nature of work and capitalism between the mid 1980s and 2016 Jackson and Detroit offer examples of the racialization of deindustrialization how it operates as a structure of feeling and as representations as well as a shift in the dominant mode of production and how industrialization's successor mode financialization uses imagery both very similar to and very different from its predecessor California Video Glenn Phillips, 2008 Whether designing complex video sculptures installations
