Metaphor, Metonymy, the Body and the Environment Jeannette Littlemore, Marianna Bolognesi, Nina Julich-Warpakowski, Chung-hong Danny Leung, Paula Pérez Sobrino, 2023-07-20 By exploring the associations that people make between emotions and colours looking at how they vary across languages and exploring the explanations that people provide for the associations that they make this Element provides insight into the ways in which humans express emotions through colour and the reasons why they do so Metaphoric and metonymic language and thought play a key role on several levels in the formation of emotion colour associations interacting with physical environmental and social factors A strong metaphorical connection between the valence of the emotion and the lightness of the colours with which it is associated and between the intensity of an emotion and the saturation level of the colours with which it is associated is found However the strength of this association varies according to the linguistic background of the speaker and the gender in which the emotion is presented

Unpacking Creativity Paula Pérez Sobrino, Jeannette Littlemore, Samantha Ford, 2021-09-02 Figurative communication the use of metaphor metonymy hyperbole and irony provides economy of expression clarity persuasiveness politeness evaluation and communication of emotions However it also increases the potential for misunderstanding in situations when people lack shared background knowledge This book combines theoretical frameworks with empirical studies that measure the effectiveness of different approaches to the use of figurative language in advertisements to show how to maximise the benefits of creative metaphor and metonymy in global advertising It highlights how subtle differences in colour layout and combinations of different kinds of figurative language affect the reception and appreciation of creative advertising shedding new light on the nature of figurative communication itself With a balance between theory experiments and practical case studies this book is accessible for academics in linguistics and communication studies as well as advertising and marketing professionals

Color Theory and Its Application in Art and Design George A. Agoston, 2013-11-11 My aim in this introductory text is to present a comprehensible discussion of certain technical topics and recent developments in color science that I believe are of real interest to artists and designers I treat a number of applications of this knowledge for example in selection and use of colorants pigments and dyes and light Early in the book I discuss what color is and what its characteristics are This is followed by a chapter on pertinent aspects of light as the stimulus that causes the perception of color. Then the subject of the colors of opaque and transparent nonfluorescent and fluorescent materials is taken up. There are sections on color matching, color mixture, and color primaries. Chapter 6 introduces the basic ideas that underlie the universal method CIE of color specification. Later chapters show how these ideas have been extended to serve other purposes such as systematic color naming, determining complementary colors, mixing colored lights, and demonstrating the limitations of color gamuts of colorants. The Munsell and the Ostwald color systems and the Natural Colour System of Sweden are explained, and the new Uniform Color Scales of the Optical Society of America are described. Color specification itself is a broad topic. The information presented here is relevant in art and design for those who work with pigments and dyes or with products that contain them such as paints, printing inks, plastics, glasses, mosaic tesserae, etc.
