Ratings, Rating Agencies and the Global Financial System Richard M. Levich,Giovanni Majnoni,Carmen Reinhart,2012-12-06 Ratings Rating Agencies and the Global Financial System brings together the research of economists at New York University and the University of Maryland along with those from the private sector government bodies and other universities The first section of the volume focuses on the historical origins of the credit rating business and its present day industrial organization structure The second section presents several empirical studies crafted largely around individual firm level or bank level data These studies examine a the relationship between ratings and the default and recovery experience of corporate borrowers b the comparability of credit ratings made by domestic and foreign rating agencies and c the usefulness of financial market indicators for rating banks among other topics In the third section the record of sovereign credit ratings in predicting financial crises and the reaction of financial markets to changes in credit ratings is examined The final section of the volume emphasizes policy issues now facing regulators and credit rating agencies

Labor Market Institutions and the Cost of Recessions Mr.Tom Krebs,Mr.Martin Scheffel,2017-04-03 This paper studies the effect of two labor market institutions unemployment insurance UI and job search assistance JSA on the output cost and welfare cost of recessions The paper develops a tractable incomplete market model with search unemployment skill depreciation during unemployment and idiosyncratic as well as aggregate labor market risk The theoretical analysis shows that an increase in JSA and a reduction in UI reduce the output cost of recessions by making the labor market more fluid along the job finding margin and thus making the economy more resilient to macroeconomic shocks In contrast the effect of JSA and UI on the welfare cost of recessions is in general ambiguous The paper also provides a quantitative application to the German labor market reforms of 2003 2005 the so called Hartz reforms which improved JSA Hartz III reform and reduced UI Hartz IV reform According to the baseline calibration the two labor market reforms led to a substantial reduction in the output cost of recessions and a moderate reduction in the welfare cost of recessions in Germany
