Abstract The authors examined the effects of a 12-week, 100% body weight (BW) resistance training program on the body composition and muscle strength of 10 sedentary, middle-aged men. The subjects were randomly assigned to either a control or an exercise group. The control group was instructed to maintain their current level of physical activity, while the exercise group performed a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program. The results showed that the exercise group significantly increased their muscle mass and strength, while the control group showed no significant changes. The authors concluded that a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program is effective in improving body composition and muscle strength in sedentary, middle-aged men.
