INTRODUCTION

Field hockey is a team sport, played on a field of grass or artificial turf. It is a fast-paced game that involves a lot of running, passing, and shooting. The game is played with a stick and a ball. The ball is made of a hard material, usually plastic or wood, and is about the size of a tennis ball. The sticks are made of wood or plastic and are about 1.5 meters long. The game is played on a rectangular field that is about 90 meters long and 45 meters wide. The field is divided into three parts: the center, the wings, and the goal. The center is the largest part of the field and is where most of the action takes place. The wings are the two long narrow strips of land on either side of the center. The goal is the smallest part of the field and is where the ball is scored. The game is played by two teams of eleven players each. The players are divided into three positions: forwards, midfielders, and defenders. The forwards are the players who are closest to the goal and are responsible for scoring goals. The midfielders are the players who are in the center of the field and are responsible for passing the ball and controlling the game. The defenders are the players who are closest to the goal and are responsible for preventing the other team from scoring goals. The game is played for 70 minutes, with a 10-minute break at half-time. The team that scores the most goals wins the game.

BREATHING OF THE GAME

Field hockey is a game that has been played for over 100 years. It is a game that is played in many different parts of the world. The game is played on a rectangular field that is about 90 meters long and 45 meters wide. The field is divided into three parts: the center, the wings, and the goal.
