2 An overview of workforce planning

Strategic vs operational workforce planning

Strategic workforce planning: guarantees an alignment to an organisation's business strategy. It is a holistic approach to assessing and analysing the internal business drivers and goals, and external environment developments impacting upon your business. It specifically focuses on identifying critical job roles and families and their strategic capabilities required to meet future goals. It typically has a three- to five-year horizon. Effectiveness and timely quantitative and qualitative data capture will inform potential future risks by predicting possible outcomes. Actions can then be taken to mitigate against future workforce risks.

Operational workforce planning: has a shorter horizon, typically three to twelve months. The focus is more on identifying skill gaps, numbers of people required to satisfy immediate needs and mechanical processes such as recruitment or training spend. It is a tool to manage day-to-day issues.

Timelines for change initiators

Another important consideration to address is the distinctive issues that occur within different timelines of change. The type of change involved and over what period of time.
