From Slavery to Aid Benedetta Rossi,2015-08-25 From Slavery to Aid engages two major themes in African historiography the slow death of slavery and the evolution of international development and reveals their interrelation in the social history of the region of Ader in the Nigerien Sahel Benedetta Rossi traces the historical transformations that turned a society where slavery was a fundamental institution into one governed by the goals and methods of aid Over an impressive sweep of time from the pre colonial power of the Caliphate of Sokoto to the aid driven governments of the present this study explores the problem that has remained the central conundrum throughout Ader s history how workers could meet subsistence needs and employers fulfil recruitment requirements in an area where natural resources are constantly exposed to the climatic hazards characteristic of the edge of the Sahara Categories and Contexts Simon Szreter,Hania Sholkamy,A. Dharmalingam,2004-03-18 Throughout its history as a social science demography has been associated with an exclusively quantitative orientation for studying social problems As a result demographers tend to analyse population issues scientifically through sets of fixed social categories that are divorced from dynamic relationships and local contexts and processes This volume questions these fixed categories in two ways First it examines the historical and political circumstances in which such categories had their provenance and second it reassesses their uncritical applications over space and time in a diverse range of empirical case studies encouraging throughout a constructive interdisciplinary dialogue involving anthropologists demographers historians and sociologists This volume seeks to examine the political complexities that lie at the heart of population studies by focusing on category formation category use and category critique It shows that this takes the form of a dialectic between the needs for clarity of scientific and administrative analysis and the recalcitrant diversity of the social contexts and human processes that generate population change The critical reflections of each chapter are enriched by meticulous ethnographic fieldwork and historical research drawn from every continent This volume therefore exemplifies a new methodology for research in population studies one that does not simply accept and re use the established categories of population science but seeks critically and reflexively to explore test and re evaluate their meanings in diverse contexts It shows that for demography to realise its full potential it must urgently re examine and contextualize the social categories used today in population research The Bookseller and the Stationery Trades' Journal ,1899 Official organ of the book trade of the United Kingdom Trubner's Catalogue of Dictionaries and Grammars of the Principal Languages and Dialects of the World Anonymous,2024-05-30 Reprint of the original first published in 1882 Locative Predications in Chadic Languages Zygmunt Frajzyngier,2024-10-10 This book demonstrates that the grammatical systems of individual languages encode unique semantic structures Zygmunt Frajzyngier examines these semantic structures with particular reference to how languages convey information about the location of an entity or an event and the movements of an entity in space drawing on data from eight typologically distinct languages that belong to three branches of the Chadic family These languages were chosen because some display locative expressions with semantic and syntactic characteristics that have not been observed or described in other languages most importantly in the coding of what Frajzyngier calls the locative domain in the grammatical system The volume shows that utterances in a given language are determined by the functions encoded in the grammatical system and by where those functions are encoded it further shows that syntactic properties and the existence of some lexical items in the language are also determined by those same functions

Literature ,1898 Literature Henry Duff Traill,John Kendrick Bangs,1898 Biographical Dictionary of Christian Missions Gerald H. Anderson,1999 The book also features cross references throughout a bibliography accompanying each entry an elaborate appendix listing biographies according to particular categories of interest and a comprehensive index
