Phill Benson's thought-provoking book, Teaching and researching autonomy, provides important views about teaching and researching regarding learner autonomy in (language) classrooms. This book has illuminated educational policy makers, curriculum developers, managers, teachers and various other professionals who are concerned about developing learner autonomy with core principles about learner autonomy, practices of (language) learner autonomy, and research areas about (language) learner autonomy. The book comprises four sections, each of which consists of several chapters. Additional information such as quotes and explanations, short synopses of relevant concepts, and bibliographies of the relevant scholars have also been portrayed in each chapter to enhance readers' comprehension of the chapter.

Intersections in

Language Planning and Policy Jean Fornasiero, Sarah M. A. Reed, Rob Amery, Eric Bouvet, Kayoko Enomoto, Hui Ling Xu, 2020-09-28 This volume encompasses the range of issues encountered by language scholars who teach and research in departments of languages and cultures within the higher education system predominantly in Australia but touching other universities worldwide Related studies on language planning methodology or pedagogy have focused on one or more of these same issues but rarely on their totality Intersections as a metaphor running discreetly through the essays in this volume connects them all to a lived reality The field of languages and cultures as it is practised and reflected upon in Australian universities is essentially an interdisciplinary and interconnecting space one in which linguistic and disciplinary diversities meet and join forces rather than collide or disperse along different pathways The international and local studies featured here focus on language planning new pedagogies and language reclamation and link to meeting points and commonalities They show that language scholars are increasingly finding themselves on common ground as they tackle issues of policy and practice affecting their field whether within their institutions within the tertiary system or within the framework of government policy

Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages

David Nunan, 2015-02-11 David Nunan's dynamic learner centered teaching style has informed and inspired countless TESOL educators around the world In this fresh straightforward introduction to teaching English to speakers of other languages he presents teaching techniques and procedures along with the underlying theory and principles Complex theories and research studies are explained in a clear and comprehensible yet non trivial manner without trivializing them Practical examples of how to develop teaching materials and tasks from sound principles provide rich illustrations of theoretical constructs The content is presented through a lively variety of different textual genres including classroom vignettes showing language teaching in action question and answer sessions and opportunities to eavesdrop on small group discussions among teachers and teachers in preparation Readers get involved through engaging interactive pedagogical features and opportunities for reflection and personal application Each chapter follows the same format so that readers know what to expect as they work through the text Key terms are defined in a Glossary at the end of the book David Nunan s own reflections and commentaries throughout enrich the direct up close style of the text Directed Motivational Currents in L2 Nourollah Zarrinabadi,Saeed Ketabi,Mansoor Tavakoli,2019-01-24 The book presents theoretical considerations as well as the results of empirical research on the existence of directed motivational current DMC experiences among Iranian English as a foreign language EFL learners in order to provide insights into how a DMC is triggered and launched and to explore whether the key characteristics of DMCs could be detected in language learners experiences in Iran Although D rnyei et al 2016 claimed that language learners who experience a DMC may have an amalgamation of several positive emotions they did not present any evidence of whether these feelings exert any impact on learners willingness to take part in language learning situations willingness to communicate WTC their confidence to use their L2 their self perceptions and the extent to which they independently try to learn English inside and outside the classroom context language learner autonomy This book extensively studies DMCs in an EFL setting and examines how such experiences affect language learners WTC self concept language learner autonomy and self confidence
