Tactical Approaches to Technical Communication Hayley McCullough, Hilary A. Sarat-St. Peter, Miles A. Kimball, 2025-06-01 Delves into how individuals tactically exist within communicative systems carving out spaces for themselves in places they don t necessarily fit In 1984 Michel de Certeau described the terms strategies as how institutions communicate their wants demands desires and tactics as how individuals navigate these potentially hostile unwelcoming systems A little over two decades later Miles A Kimball solidified the idea of tactical technical communication laying the foundations for a new area of inquiry and scholarship Today many academics and researchers have imbued the concept of tactical technical communication with their own ideas and perspectives This essay collection spotlights a meaningful diversity of tactical technical communication scholarship exploring topics like the feminist punk magazine BIKINI KILL the phenomenon of copwatching the usage of fictional narratives in technical writing courses and the challenges of LBGTQ visibility in local libraries In many ways the contributors are partaking in their own forms of tactical communication as they carve out spaces for themselves and their ideas within the academic discourse

Citizenship and Advocacy in Technical Communication Godwin Y. Agboka, Natalia Matveeva, 2018-06-22 In Citizenship and Advocacy in Technical Communication teachers researchers and practitioners will find a variety of theoretical frameworks empirical studies and teaching approaches to advocacy and citizenship Specifically the collection is organized around three main themes or sections considerations for understanding and defining advocacy and citizenship locally and globally engaging with the local and global community and introducing advocacy in a classroom The collection covers an expansive breadth of issues and topics that speak to the complexities of undertaking advocacy work in TPC including local grant writing activities cosmopolitanism and global transnational rhetoric digital citizenship and social media use strategic and tactical communication and diversity and social justice The contributors themselves representing fifteen academic institutions and occupying various academic ranks offer nuanced definitions frameworks examples and strategies for students scholars practitioners and educators who want to or are already engaged in a variegated range of advocacy work More so they reinforce the inherent humanistic values of our field and discuss effective rhetorical and current technological tools at our disposal Finally they show us how through pedagogical approaches and everyday mundane activities and practices we can advocate either actively or passively respond to the constant changes and challenges in the new digital universe Liberal Education in Twenty-first Century Engineering David F. Ollis, Kathryn Angelyn Neeley, Heinz C. Luegenbiehl, 2004 Twenty first century engineering education must meet radically revised national accreditation standards known colloquially as EC2000 This book shows paths forward for all faculty involved in the liberal education of engineering undergraduates Beginning with an exhortation for liberal education it includes the EC2000 criteria and its historical origin as well as example institutional and individual responses to these criteria which include topics in communication ethics and professional responsibility contemporary issues art and aesthetics and the integration of engineering and the humanities The variety of curricular responses presented indicate that this is a formative perhaps even revolutionary period in engineering education Research on Composition Peter Smagorinsky, 2006 Covering the period between 1984 and 2003 this authoritative sequel picks up where the earlier volumes Braddock et al 1963 and Hillocks 1986 now classics in the field left off It features a broader focus that goes beyond the classroom teaching of writing to include teacher research second language writing rhetoric home and community literacy workplace literacy and histories of writing Each chapter is written by an expert in the area reviewed and covers both conventional written composition and multimodal forms of composition including drawing digital forms and other relevant media Research on Composition is an invaluable road map of composition research for the next decade and required reading for anyone teaching or writing about composition today Amplifying Voices in UX Amber Lancaster, Carie S. T. King, 2024-03-01 The field of technical and professional communication is young and research related to it and specifically usability is constantly growing Usability and user experience researchers are broadening research into studies involving social issues accessibility reconciliation and user advocacy Amplifying Voices in UX explores the theme of balance in design and UX in three main areas curriculum design that includes empathy service learning and design justice design and balance for effective medical and health communication and design to create balance in labor social civic and political movements

Meeting the Challenge of Human Resource Management Vernon D. Miller, Michael E. Gordon, 2014-07-11 While communicating is a vital skill for managers at all organizational levels and in all functional areas human resource managers are expected to be especially adept communicators given the important interpersonal component of their roles Practitioners and scholars alike stand to benefit from incorporating an updated and more nuanced view of communication theory and practice into standard human resource management practices This book compiles readings by thought leaders in human resource management and communication exploring the intersection of interests theories and perspectives from the two fields to highlight new opportunities for research and practice In addition to covering the foundations of strategic human resource management the book offers a critical review of the research literature on topics including recruitment selection performance management compensation and development uses a communication perspective to analyze the impact of corporate strategy on human resource systems investigates the key human resource management topic of the relationship between a company's human capital and its effectiveness directly discusses the implications of communication literature for human resource management practice. Written at the cross section of two established and critically linked fields, this book is a must have for graduate human resource management and organizational communication students as well as for high level human resource management practitioners.

Issues in Web-Based Pedagogy Robert A. Cole, 2000-06-30 There has been an explosion of Web based courses in higher education. Aiming at an interdisciplinary audience, the contributors draw upon diverse philosophical and empirical backgrounds to make claims about Web based pedagogy. Among the points they raise is the concern that education is more easily commodified through Internet technologies, implying that traditional faculty roles in teaching and research are at risk. Moreover, current understandings of what it means to be a teacher or a student are undergoing redefinition as a result of these new distance learning technologies. The contributors note that Web based pedagogy is associated with sound instruction when particular strategies are adopted. As a corollary, this form of teaching is least effective when attempts are made to directly translate traditional styles of teaching. Political, social, and economic interests are competing to shape the direction that online education will take. The authors argue that opportunities exist for administrators and faculty to define the terms under which Web based learning will occur in their institutions.

English Education at the Tertiary Level in Asia Eun Sung Park, Bernard Spolsky, 2017-03-16 This is the third volume of a trilogy on English Language education in Asia within the Routledge Critical Studies in Asian Education. Put together by editors and contributors selected by Asia TEFL, this book provides a timely and critical review of the current trends in tertiary level English education in Asia. It foregrounds the developments and trends, policies and implementation as well as research and practice. Written by ELT scholars and educational leaders, this book presents articles on China, Hong Kong, India, Japan, Korea, Malaysia, the Philippines, Singapore, Thailand, and Vietnam. While the authors focus on their own local issues, providing an overview of the state of tertiary English teaching in their respective territories, they also provide insights from their successes and failures which can help inspire solutions to similar challenges faced internationally in the field. Chapters in the book include: Heading toward the global standardization of English education in Korean universities; English in tertiary education in India: A Janus faced perspective with special reference to University of Delhi; Developing English language skills in the Singapore higher education context; ELT at tertiary institutions in China: A developmental perspective. This book will be valued by administrators, researchers, and scholars interested in bilingualism, language policy, and planning in higher education.

Environmental Preservation and the Grey Cliffs Conflict Kristin D. Pickering, 2024-02-15 Based on a qualitative ethnographic observational case study approach, Environmental Preservation and the Grey Cliffs Conflict presents an analysis of the conflict negotiation between the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and a local community that struggled to address a deteriorating Corps managed recreational lake area in Tennessee known as Grey Cliffs. Viewing the dispute from the perspective of a new member of the community and a specialist in technical communication and professional writing Kristin Pickering provides a unique perspective on this communication process Though environmental degradation and unauthorized use threatened the Grey Cliffs recreational lake area to the point that the Corps considered closure community members valued it highly and wanted to keep it open The community near this damaged and crime ridden area needed help rejuvenating its landscape and image but the Corps and community were sharply divided on how to maintain this beloved geographic space because of the stakeholders different cultural backgrounds and values as well as the narratives used to discuss them By co constructing and aligning narratives values and ethos over time a difficult and lengthy process the Corps and community succeeded and Grey Cliffs remains open to all Focusing on field notes participant interviews and analysis of various texts created throughout the conflict Pickering applies rhetorical analysis and a grounded theory approach to regulation identity sustainability and community values to analyze this communication process Illustrating the positive change that can occur when governmental organizations and rural communities work together to construct shared values and engage in a rhetoric of relationship that preserves the environment Environmental Preservation and the Grey Cliffs Conflict provides key recommendations for resolving environmental conflicts within local communities especially for those working in technical and professional communication organizational communication environmental science and public policy
