School Commercialism Alex Molnar, 2013-09-13 Pizza Hut's Book It program rewards students with pizza for meeting their reading goals Toys R Us paid a Kansas school five dollars for each student who took its toy survey Cisco Systems donated internet access to a California elementary school asking in return for the school choir to sing the company's praises while wearing Cisco t-shirts Kids today face a barrage of corporate messages in the classroom In School Commercialism education expert Alex Molnar traces marketing in American schools over the last twenty five years raising serious questions about the role of private corporations in public education Since the 1990s Molnar argues commercial activities have shaped the structure of the school day influenced the curriculum and determined whether children have access to computers and other technologies He argues convincingly against advertisers' assertion that their contributions are a win-win proposition for cash-strapped schools and image-conscious companies From the marketing of unhealthy foods to privatizing reforms such as the Edison Schools and Knowledge Universe School Commercialism tracks trends that are more pervasive than many parents realize and shows how we might recapture schools to better serve the public interest

An Age of Accountability John L. Rury, 2023-10-13 An Age of Accountability highlights the role of test based accountability as a policy framework in American education from 1970 to 2020 For more than half a century the quest to hold schools and educators accountable for academic achievement has relied almost exclusively on standardized assessment The theory of change embedded in almost all test based accountability programs held that assessment with stipulated consequences could lead to major improvements in schools This was accomplished politically by proclaiming lofty goals of attaining universal proficiency and closing achievement gaps which repeatedly failed to materialize But even after very clear disappointments no other policy framework has emerged to challenge its hegemony The American public today has little confidence in institutions to improve the quality of goods and services they provide especially in the public sector As a consequence many Americans continue to believe that accountability remains a vital necessity even if educators and policy scholars disagree
