Local Natures, Global Responsibilities

, 2010-01-01 In the New Literatures in English nature has long been a paramount issue the environmental devastation caused by colonialism has left its legacy with particularly disastrous consequences for the most vulnerable parts of the world At the same time social and cultural transformations have altered representations of nature in postcolonial cultures and literatures It is this shift of emphasis towards the ecological that is addressed by this volume A fast expanding field ecocriticism covers a wide range of theories and areas of interest particularly the relationship between literature and other texts and the environment Rather than adopting a rigid agenda the interpretations presented involve ecocritical perspectives that can be applied most fruitfully to literary and non literary texts Some are more general holistic approaches literature and other cultural forms are a living organism part of an intellectual ecosystem implemented and sustained by the interactions between the natural world both human and non human and its cultural representations Nature itself is a new interpretative category in line with other paradigms such as race class gender and identity A wide range of genres are covered from novels or films in which nature features as the main topic or protagonist to those with an ecocritical agenda as in dystopian literature Other concerns are nature as a cultural construct gendered natures and the city country dichotomy The texts treated challenge traditional Western dualisms human animal man nature woman man While such global phenomena as media old or new tourism and catastrophes permeate many of these texts there is also a dual focus on nature as the inexplicable elusive Other and the need for human agency and global responsibility
