Value Management Roger H. Davies, 2016-02-17 Change programmes in both private and public sectors have a poor record of delivering their intended value The reasons given most often for their failure include lack of executive support or buy in from key users loose requirements definition weak programme management and plain wishful thinking They rarely include technical limitations Value Management puts forward the view that the true problem lies in failing to understand the causal links between the intended stakeholder outcomes and the actual programme outputs Repeating the pattern of failure can be avoided by asking two questions Before implementation what capabilities must a change programme deliver when and in what order so as to cause intended value against a defined purpose with speed and certainty During and after implementation what minor adjustments and or major shifts are needed to be certain that the programme remains on purpose and on value and two answers to be given Target time and align change programmes to deliver maximum intended value to stakeholders the baseline business case track and respond to changes during and beyond implementation to ensure that the programme actually delivers or exceeds intended value value realisation The authors show how by asking and answering these questions direction and delivery of any programme can be clarified and greater economic value achieved

Practice-Driven Research on Enterprise Transformation Frank Harmsen, Frank Schalkwijk, Joseph Barjis, Sietse Overbeek, 2010-11-01 The PRET working conferences are set up as a one day event in such a way that it attracts an audience from both industry and academia PRET 2010 was a continuation of the PRET 2009 working conference which was organized as the industrial track at the 2009 CAiSE conference The PRET 2010 working conference was organized as part of the enterprise engineering week and was co located with PoEM 2010 and TEAR 2010 in Delft The statement that modern day enterprises are in a constant state of flux is in 2010 even more true than it was in 2009 The markets are in a state of confusion and seem to have no direction at all as they are swinging back and forth depending on often contradictory signals and economic forecasts As a consequence enterprises be they private businesses government departments or other organizations are taking their measures Restructuring divesting proving performance and merging are among the usual transformation activities that enterprises conduct to provide answers to the ever challenging demands that are put on them In addition to the tricky economic situation developments like globalization rapid technological advancement aging and the changing mindset of customers contribute to a situation in which nothing is certain anymore and in which change is the only constant PRET approaches these developments and the impact they have on enterprises from a holistic enterprise engineering perspective
