Coach Education in Football Thomas M. Leeder, 2022-06-09 Association Football is undoubtedly a global sport with millions of individuals participating in more than 200 countries The need for an educated football coaching workforce to deliver appropriate coaching practices has never been greater Formal coach education which is often the primary medium for developing football coaches is socially constructed meaning an array of social cultural and historical factors underpin the design and delivery of any provision Coach Education in Football Contemporary Issues and Global Perspectives is the first book to explicitly explore these aspects by providing critical insight into football coach education programmes from across the globe Each chapter organised via a central theme highlights a contemporary issue affecting football coach education and development within a specific country offering insights into the contextual opportunities and challenges The book covers essential topics including the progression of female football coaches coaches perspectives towards current provision technological and pedagogical advances and the historical development of formal coach education Each chapter demonstrates the complexities associated with developing football coaches within grassroots and high performance domains while providing recommendations for national governing bodies policy makers and coach developers This book is the first of its kind to explicitly investigate football coach education globally This accessible book is an important read for students academics and practitioners with an interest in sports coaching coach education and football Team Sports Training Javier Sainz, 2020-03-10 Team Sports Training The Complexity Model presents a novel approach to team sports training examining football soccer rugby field hockey basketball handball and futsal through the paradigm of complexity Under a traditional prism these sports have been analyzed using a deterministic perspective where the constituent dimensions of the sportsmen were independently examined and treated in isolation It was expected that the body worked as a perfect machine and once all the components were maximized the sportsmen improved their performance If the same closed recipe was applied to all the players that formed part of the squad the global team performance was expected to be enhanced As much as these reductionistic models seem coherent when contrasted in practice we see that the reality of team sports is far more different from the closed conditions in which they were idealized Team sports contain variable heterogeneous and non linear constraints which require the development of a different logic to organize their training During the last years ecological psychology the dynamical systems theory or the constraints led approach have opened interesting fields of research from which many conceptual foundations can be applied to team sports Based in this contemporary framework the current book presents the study of the players and the teams as complex systems using coordination dynamics to explain the emergence of the self organisation episodes that characterize them In addition this thinking line provides the reader with the ability to apply all these innovative concepts to their practical training scenarios Altogether it is intended to challenge the reader to rethink their training strategy and to develop an original theory and practice of training specific to team sports Training Complex Cognitive Skills Jeroen J.
