Burki, 2011-03-24 Rapid changes have taken place in the structure of the global economy and this book looks at how South Asia can take advantage of these changes The author argues that the developing global economy will be more complex than originally thought that instead of a bipolar model with two countries the US and China at the centre it will be multipolar with eight centres of economic activity including India The book goes on to suggest that in the context of such a model there should be regional cooperation between India and its immediate neighbouring countries for South Asia to advance as an economic region It argues that South Asia will need to look at its history and that changes in attitudes particularly in India and Pakistan are necessary The possible benefits to the region in terms of increases in the rates of economic growth if the regional approach is adopted are discussed The book presents a useful contribution to studies in South Asia as well as Asian Economics     Oswaal One For All Olympiad Previous Years' Solved Papers, Class-8 General Knowledge Book (For
