SAGE Visual Methods Jason Hughes, 2012-07-23. In contemporary Western societies the visual domain has come to assume a hitherto unprecedented cultural centrality. Daily life is replete with a potentially endless stream of images and other visual messages from the electronic and paper-based billboards of the street to the TV and Internet feeds of the home. The visual has become imbued with a symbolic potency, a signifying power that seemingly eclipses that of all other sensory data. The central aim of this four-volume collection is to explore key approaches to visual research methods and to consider some of the core principles, issues, debates and controversies surrounding the use of visual techniques in relation to three key enterprises: 1. documentation and representation; 2. interpretation and classification; and 3. elicitation and collaboration. Volume One: Principles, Issues, Debates and Controversies in Visual Research serves as a theoretical backdrop to the field as a whole. It introduces core epistemological, ethical and methodological debates that effectively cut across the four-volume collection as a whole. Volume Two: Documentation and Representation illustrates approaches to visual documentation and representation from classical documentaries to contemporary state of the art modes of visual anthropology and ethnography Volume Three Interpretation and Classification examines core debates surrounding and approaches to visual analysis Volume Four Elicitation and Collaboration explores participative approaches to visual inquiry      Visual Data and Their Use in Science Education Jon Pedersen, Kevin D. Finson, 2013-04-01 Visual Data in Science Education builds upon previous work done by the editors to bring some definition to the meaning of visual data as it relates to education and highlighted the breadth of types and uses of visual data across the major academic disciplines In this book the editors have brought this focus specifically to science education through the contributions of colleagues in the field who actively research about and engage in teaching with visual data The book begins by examining how the brain functions with respect to processing visual data then explores models of conceptual frameworks which then leads into how related ideas are actuated in education settings ranging from elementary science classrooms to college environments As a whole this book fosters a more coherent image of the multifaceted process of science teaching and learning that is informed by current understandings of science knowledge construction the scientific enterprise and the millennium student as they relate to visual data      CIM Coursebook 06/07 Customer

The Oxford Handbook of Environmental Criminology Gerben Bruinsma, Shane D. Johnson, 2018 The study of how the environment local geography and physical locations influence crime has a long history that stretches across many research traditions These include the neighborhood effects approach developed in the 1920s the criminology of place and a newer approach that attends to the perception of crime in communities Aided by new technologies and improved data reporting in recent decades research in environmental criminology has developed rapidly within each of these approaches Yet research in the subfield remains fragmented and competing theories are rarely examined together The Oxford Handbook of Environmental Criminology takes a unique approach and synthesizes the contributions of existing methods to better integrate the subfield as a whole Gerben J N Bruinsma and Shane D Johnson have assembled a cast of top scholars to provide an in depth source for understanding how and why physical setting can influence the emergence of crime affect the environment and impact individual or group behavior The contributors address how changes in the environment global connectivity and technology provide more criminal opportunities and new ways of committing old crimes They also explore how crimes committed in countries with distinct cultural practices like China and West Africa might lead to different spatial patterns of crime This is a state of the art compendium on environmental criminology that reflects the diverse research and theory developed across the western world      The Investigation of White-collar Crime ,1977
