

Animal Physiology AND Biochemistry

Calcium and Calcium Binding Proteins Charles Gerday, L. Bolis, R.

Gilles,2012-12-06 The idea of Professors Bolis and Gilles to gather together for a 3 days meeting in the splendid environment of Crans Montana in Switzerland a limited number of people around the subject of calcium and calcium binding proteins seemed at first particularly attractive and when they asked me to take charge of the scientific organization of the symposium I accepted with enthusiasm It rapidly became clear that the major problem would be the selection of the topics since it was impossible to cover completely and in depth such a broad and dynamic area of research In our view one imperative was to associate as intimately as possible the structural and the functional aspects of the areas covered Apart from one whole day focused on the fascinating roles played by calmodulin in cellular activities the other sessions were devoted to calmodulin related calcium binding proteins in muscle and non muscle tissues and to some selected biological systems such as mitochondria secretory cells or sarcoplasmic reticulum in which calcium also plays a crucial role The presentations were made by leading investigators in their field Some of them do not however appear in the present volume for which there are two reasons first some of the contributions were somewhat outside the scope of the book second three speakers for valid reasons simply found no opportunity to write a manuscript in the allotted time

Intestinal Transport M. Gilles-Baillien,R. Gilles,2012-12-06 The aim of this symposium was to provide a framework for fruitful discussion on intestinal transport not only for advanced scientists but also for younger people starting in this field of research Invited lectures communications and poster presentations were focused on four central themes all treating the properties of the sole intestinal epithelium deliberately leaving aside problems dealing with more integrative functions of the whole intestine The importance of motility or blood circulation for instance is certainly capital in the overall intestinal function but these aspects by themselves deserve another meeting This volume has compiled the manuscripts of the invited lectures which substantially comprised the four sessions of the Symposium Part 1 is designed to emphasize actual knowledge of the transport of water inorganic as well as organic ions and molecules across the isolated intestinal epithelium. An enormous wave of investigations has emerged from studies performed with Ussing chambers which roused interest in studies on absorption mechanisms and subsequently on secretory processes. This has triggered off a trend to research on isolated cells as absorption and secretion are the main function of the different cell types constituting the intestinal epithelium. In this first session not only the importance of the parallel arrangement of these different cellular entities is stressed but also the role played by the paracellular route. German books in print, 1998 Collected Reprints
