

Should Euthanasia be Legal

Bob Dent, who lives in Darwin, Australia, was the first person to ever participate in euthanasia. He was able to do this because of the Terminally Ill Act, which had become law in the northern territory of Australia on July 1st, 1996 (Fraser and Walter). Bob's case is important because of he was the first to go through with it and his attitude towards it. He had more than a few words to say regarding the topic. He pleaded that this compassionate legislation should be respected, he also added that he was very grateful for being able to die with dignity and compassion (Fraser and Walter). He then went on to explain why he was choosing to be euthanized.

He described about being in pain and while being in pain, he would watch his wife suffer to take care of him. He didn't want to see her suffer. He also included that the state and the church are in two separate categories. He said that no one because of their religion could make him abide to their rules until a doctor decides he's had an enough and increases his pain medication, which was morphine, until he dies (Fraser and Walter).

In October 2015, governor of California, Jerry Brown, signed the law legalizing euthanasia in California. Governor Brown legalized this because of how he would feel if he was dying and doesn't want to deny the others right to do that (Brooker). People who oppose it are usually people believe it is religiously wrong or that it shouldn't be a option because of hospice care, which gives doctors more power and is not in the best interests of the patient. There are two types of euthanasia, active and passive euthanasia. Active euthanasia when death is brought by an act (for ex: lethal injection) (BBC). passive euthanasia is when death brought on by an emission (for ex: withholding treatment) (BBC).

My thesis is that euthanasia should be legal. Euthanasia allows terminally ill patients die with dignity. The word euthanasia in itself means in greek, good death. So why should someone who wants a good death be denied of one, when there's a law allowing it. Euthanasia is an act of putting people who are in pain with no cure insight to death without pain (Goel). Most people disagree with euthanasia because they believe death should be natural occurence in life without help (Goel). Imagine someone with creutzfeldt jakob disease, where the symptoms are: progressive dementia, personality changes, problems with muscle coordination, depression, difficulty speaking and swallowing and insomnia, which could eventually lead to: heart failure, pneumonia, respiratory failure etc (Mayo clinic).

There is no cure insight for this disease. Patients who have this disease have at least a year plus before they meet their demise. Though, before that point, they are usually in a coma. This condition is very deadly with 90% dying the first year and 10% being lucky enough to see two years (National institute of disorders and stroke). Dying with this disease, you will bas analysing both the legal and the ethical framework for physicians in armed conflict the book is invaluable to practitioners and legal scholars alike

Groupthink in Science David M. Allen, James W. Howell, 2020-04-23 This book discusses one of the hottest topics in science today i.e. the concern over certain problematic practices within the scientific enterprise It raises questions and more importantly begins to supply answers about one particularly widespread phenomenon that sometimes impedes scientific progress group processes The book looks at many problematic manifestations of going along with the crowd that are adopted at the expense of truth Closely related is the concept of pathological altruism or altruism bias the tendency of scientists to bias their research in order to further the ideological or financial interests of an in group at the expense of both the interest of other groups as well as the truth The book challenges the widespread notion that science is invariably a benevolent benign process It defines the scientific enterprise in practice as opposed to in theory as a cultural system designed to produce factual knowledge In effect the book offers a broad and unique take on an important and incompletely explored subject research and academic discourse that sacrifices scientific objectivity and perhaps even the scientist's own ethical standards in order to further the goals of a particular group of researchers or reinforce their shared belief system or their own interests whether economic ideological or bureaucratic

The Transcendent Character of the Good Petruschka Schaafsma, 2022-08-10 This volume addresses issues of moral pluralism and polarization by drawing attention to the transcendent character of the good It probes the history of Christian theology and moral philosophy to investigate the value of this idea and then relates it to contemporary moral issues The good is transcendent in that it goes beyond concrete goods things acts or individual preferences It functions as the pole of a compass that helps orient our moral life This volume explores the critical tension between the transcendent good and its concrete embodiments in the world through concepts like conscience natural and divine law virtue and grace The chapters are divided into three parts Part I discusses metaphysical issues like the realist nature and the unity of the good in relation to philosophical naturalist and theological approaches from Augustine to Iris Murdoch The chapters in Part II explore issues about knowing the transcendent good and doing good exemplified in the delicate balance between divine command and human virtuousness Early Protestant theological views prove to be excellent interlocutors for this reflection Finally Part III focuses on how transcendence is at stake in two heavily debated moral issues of today euthanasia and the family The Transcendent Character of the Good will be of interest to scholars and advanced students working in theological ethics moral philosophy and the history of ethics The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license
