Artifacts and Ideas Bruce Trigger, 2017-09-08 Prehistoric archaeologists cannot observe their human subjects nor can they directly access their subjects ideas Both must be inferred from the remnants of the material objects they made and used In recent decades this incontrovertible fact has encouraged partisan approaches to the history and method of archaeology An empirical discipline emphasizing data classification and chronology has given way to a behaviorist approach that interprets finds as products of ecologically adaptive strategies and to a postmodern alternative that relies on an idealist cultural relativist epistemology based on belief and cultural traditions In Artifacts and Ideas Bruce G Trigger challenges all partisan versions of recent developments in archaeology while remaining committed to understanding the past from a social science perspective Over 30 years Trigger has addressed fundamental epistemological issues and opposed the influence of narrow theoretical and ideological commitments on archaeological interpretation since the 1960s Trigger encourages a relativistic understanding of archaeological interpretation Yet as post processual archaeology influenced by postmodernism became increasingly influential Trigger countered nihilistic subjectivism by laying greater emphasis on how in the long run the constraints of evidence could be expected to produce a more comprehensive and objective understanding of the past In recent years Trigger has argued that while all human behavior is culturally mediated the capacity for such mediation has evolved as a flexible and highly efficient means by which humans adapt to a world that exists independently of their will Trigger agrees that a complete understanding of what has shaped the archaeological record requires knowledge both of past beliefs and of human behavior He knows also that one must understand humans as organisms with biologically grounded drives emotions and means of understanding Likewise even in the absence of data supplied in a linguistic format by texts and oral traditions at least some of the more ecologically adaptive forms of human behavior and some general patterns of belief that display cross cultural uniformity will be susceptible to archaeological analysis Advocating a realist epistemology and a materialist ontology Artifacts and Ideas offers an illuminating guide to the present state of the discipline as well as to how archaeology can best achieve its goals

Schiffer,2001 These fourteen original essays accept a dual premise technology pervades and is embedded in all human activities By taking that approach studies of technology address two questions central in anthropological and archaeological research today accounting for variability and change These diverse yet interrelated chapters show that to understand human lives researchers must deal with the material world that all peoples create and inhabit Therefore an anthropology of technology is not a separate discrete inquiry instead it is a way to connect how people make and use things to any activity studied ranging from religion to enculturation to communication to art Each contributor discusses theories and methods and also offers a substantial case study These detailed inquiries span human societies from the Paleolithic to the computer age By moving beyond the usual approach of examining ancient technologies particularly chipped stone and low fired ceramics this volume probes for the construction of meaning in the material world across millennia The authors of these essays find technology to be an inclusive and flexible topic that merges with studies of everything else in human activity A provocative and powerful discussion of the role of technology in human cultures At a time when archaeology has become less focused on theory and archaeology and social anthropology seem to fracture farther and farther apart the book is a breath of fresh air Professor John Douglas University of Montana HCI International 2020 - Late Breaking Papers: Universal Access and Inclusive Design Constantine Stephanidis,Margherita Antona,Qin Gao,Jia Zhou,2020-09-24 This book constitutes late breaking papers from the 22nd International Conference on Human Computer Interaction HCII 2020 which was held in July 2020 The conference was planned to take place in Copenhagen Denmark but had to change to a virtual conference mode due to the COVID 19 pandemic From a total of 6326 submissions a total of 1439 papers and 238 posters have been accepted for publication in the HCII 2020 proceedings before the conference took place. In addition, a total of 333 papers and 144 posters are included in the volumes of the proceedings published after the conference as Late Breaking Work papers and posters. These contributions address the latest research and development efforts in the field and highlight the human aspects of design and use of computing systems. The 59 late breaking papers presented in this volume address the latest research and development efforts in the field and highlight the human aspects of design and use of computing systems.

Anthropology Put to Work Richard G. Fox, Les Field, 2007-05-01 How do anthropologists work today and how will they work in the future? While some anthropologists have recently called for a new public or engaged anthropology, profound changes have already occurred, leading to new kinds of work for a large number of anthropologists. The image of anthropologists reaching out from protected academic positions to a vaguely defined public is out of touch with the working conditions of these anthropologists, especially those junior and untenured. The papers in this volume show that anthropology is put to work in diverse ways today. They indicate that the new conditions of anthropological work require significant departures from canonical principles of cultural anthropology, such as replacing ethnographic rapport with multiple forms of collaboration. This volume's goal is to help graduate students and early career scholars accept these changes without feeling something essential to anthropology has been lost. There really is no other choice for most young anthropologists.
