ONE WEEK LATER, as we returned from work, there, in the middle of the camp, in the Appelplatz, stood a black gallows. We learned that soup would be distributed only after roll call, which lasted longer than usual. The orders were given more harshly than on other days, and there were strange vibrations in the air. "Caps off!" the Lagerälteste suddenly shouted. Ten thousand caps came off at once. "Cover your heads!" Ten thousand caps were back on our heads, at lightning speed. The camp gate opened. An SS unit appeared and encircled us; one SS every three paces. The machine guns on the watchtowers were pointed toward the Appelplatz. "They're expecting trouble," whispered Julek. Two SS were headed toward the solitary confinement cell. They came back, the condemned man between them. He was a young boy from Warsaw. An inmate with three years in concentration camps behind him. He was tall and strong, a giant compared to me. His back was to the gallows, his face turned toward his judge, the head of the camp. He was pale but seemed more solemn than frightened. His manacled hands did not tremble. His eyes were coolly assessing the hundreds of SS guards, the thousands of prisoners surrounding him. The Lagerälteste began to read the verdict, emphasizing every word: "In the name of Reichsführer Himmler... prisoner number... stolen during the air raid... according to the law... prisoner number... is condemned to death. Let this be a warning and an example to all prisoners." Nobody moved. I heard the pounding of my heart. The thousands of people who died daily in Auschwitz and Birkenau, in the crematoria, no longer troubled me. But this boy, leaning against his gallows, upset me deeply. "This ceremony, will it be over soon? I'm hungry..." whispered Julek. As a sign of the Lagerälteste, the Lagerkapo stepped up to the condemned youth. He was assisted by two prisoners. In exchange for two bowls of soup. The Kapo wanted to blindfold the youth, but he refused. After what seemed like a long moment, the hangman put the rope around his neck. He was about to signal his aides to pull the chair from under the young man's feet when the latter shouted, in a strong and calm voice: "Long live liberty! My curse on Germany! My curse! My-" The executioner had completed his work. Like a sword, the order cut through the air. "Caps off!" Ten thousand prisoners paid their respects. "Cover your heads!" Then the entire camp, block after block, filed past the hanged boy and stared at his extinguished eyes, the tongue hanging from his gaping mouth. The Kapos forced everyone to look him squarely in the face. Afterward, we were given permission to go back to our block and have our meal. I remember that on that evening, the soup tasted better than ever...	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> What are the gallows? The gallows are where they hung the prisoners. Why is the boy being hanged? This boy is being hung because he stole during the air raid. What was the author's purpose in including the statement from Julek? The reason for including the statement from Julek is because it signifies that this must be a common thing. Highlight three sentences that show that the boy did not have remorse (guilt) for his actions. Yellow What is the tone of this passage? List three words from the passage to support your answer. The tone of this passage is to make the reader feel sad. I know this because of the way everything is explained. The way the boy speaks before he is hung. The way the SS officer speaks before and after the death. Finally, the way all of the prisoners act throughout the passage.

Annotated Bibliography Margaret A. Drew, 1994 The Jewish Annotated New Testament Amy-Jill Levine, Marc Z. Brettler, 2011-11-15 Although major New Testament figures Jesus and Paul Peter and James Jesus mother Mary and Mary Magdalene were Jews living in a culture steeped in Jewish history beliefs and practices there has never been an edition of the New Testament that addresses its Jewish background and the culture from which it grew until now In The Jewish Annotated New Testament eminent experts under the general editorship of Amy Jill Levine and Marc Z Brettler put these writings back into the context of their original authors and audiences And they explain how these writings have affected the relations of Jews and Christians over the past two thousand years An international team of scholars introduces and annotates the Gospels Acts Letters and Revelation from Jewish perspectives in the New Revised Standard Version translation They show how Jewish practices and writings particularly the Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible influenced the New Testament writers From this perspective readers gain new insight into the New Testament s meaning and significance In addition thirty essays on historical and religious topics Divine Beings Jesus in Jewish thought Parables and Midrash Mysticism Jewish Family Life Messianic Movements Dead Sea Scrolls questions of the New Testament and anti Judaism and others bring the Jewish context of the New Testament to the fore enabling all readers to see these writings both in their original contexts and in the history of interpretation For readers unfamiliar with Christian language and customs there are explanations of such matters as the Eucharist the significance of baptism and original sin For non Jewish readers interested in the Jewish roots of Christianity and for Jewish readers who want a New Testament that neither proselytizes for Christianity nor denigrates Judaism The Jewish Annotated New Testament is an essential volume that places these writings in a context that will enlighten students professionals and general readers Holocaust in History and Life Writing. An analysis of the parallels between historical resources and life writing and the use of historical symbols and knowledge in the life writing novels or memoirs "Maus and Night". Sina Laura Rautmann, 2017-07-14 Seminar paper from the year 2016 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Literature Works grade 1 3 Leuphana Universit t L neburg language English abstract Again the Holocaust is the answer a lot of pupils ask when the topic is brought up in school This might derive from the way the holocaust is taught mainly fact based without personal encounter of survivors or personal stories A different approach could be to read novels and memoirs of holocaust survivors to bring more personal aspects into the classroom But my hypotheses is that in order to understand those novels the readers need historical basic knowledge about the holocaust I assume that memoir authors use symbols and images that refer to the happenings without further explanation By doing this they leave more space for personal and emotional stories that cannot be found in pure fact based books or encyclopedias about the holocaust To get a full picture of the holocaust and understand the novels completely the reader needs to know the meaning of certain symbols for example chimneys or death marches In order to analyze this theory I am going to use historical literature as a reference point to see what events are neutrally described and taught as facts Then I will compare these facts to the novels The Complete Maus by Art Spiegelman and Night by Elie Wiesel to see whether they took time to explain the events more detailed or whether they just refer to a symbol or happening that would be counted as common knowledge First I will give an introduction to the novels to summarize their story and highlight peculiarities and differences In this part I will also give an overview over the historical literature that will be the basis for this paper In the second part I will highlight the most important facts symbols and images that are connected with holocaust events and recognized as general knowledge I will explain them shortly and present passages from the books that refer to these events In the end I will test my hypotheses and explain whether it has been proven as a true statement or not I will present my conclusion on the importance of memoirs and historical resources for a general overview on the topic of the Holocaust and NS regimes

Ethics in a Time of Barbarism Carl P. Ellerman,2025-08-19 During a time of widespread intraspecific aggression and barbaric captivity throughout the planet this study of the ethics of survival asks the burning question At the extremes of experience when captives are struggling to survive is there a line at which the moral judgment of survival behavior ceases Stated differently Are there times in the lives of humans when the valiant attempt to maintain moral scruples clashes with the way the world is moments when moral pretension moral aspiration and the expectation of moral agency are absurd Putting the burning question under strain Carl P Ellerman offers testimony from the confessional publications of survivors who were subjected to life threatening barbaric experiences He also critically scrutinizes the competing ethical perspectives of Hume Kant Nietzsche and the U S Department of Defense Military Code of Conduct to show how the ethics of survival has been handled philosophically and militarily Empirical evidence from Evolutionary Biology Primatology and the Neurosciences is interwoven to advance a biological realism in the ethics of survival Readers are also invited to undertake an honest self examination using active imagination to answer unsparing questions as if each reader were wearing the shoes of a captive who abjures the fictions of an ideal self

Witness Between Languages Peter Davies,Peter J. Davies,2018 A growing body of scholarship is making visible the contribution of translators to the creation preservation and transmission of knowledge about the Holocaust The discussion has tended to be theoretical or to concentrate on exposing the distorted translations of texts by important witnesses such as Anne Frank or Elie Wiesel There is therefore a need for a positive concrete and contextually aware approach to the translation of Holocaust testimonies that acknowledges the achievements of translators while being sensitive to the consequences of particular translation strategies Peter Davies s study proceeds from the assumption that translators are active co creators whose work does not simply mediate a pre existing text but creates a representation of that text for a new readership in a specific context Translators of Holocaust testimonies then provide a form of textual commentary that works through ideas about witnessing historical truth and the meaning of the Holocaust In this way they are important co creators of knowledge about the Holocaust and its legacy The study focuses on translations between English and German and from other languages principally French Russian and Polish into English and German It works through a number of case studies showing how making translation and its effects visible contributes to a clearer understanding of how knowledge about the Holocaust has been and continues to be created and mediated Peter Davies is Professor of German at the University of Edinburgh

Divine Power and Evil Kenneth K. Pak,2016-04-06 Evil perplexes us all and threatens to undermine the meaningfulness of our existence How can we reconcile the reality of evil with the notion of a God who is perfectly good and powerful Process theodicy whose foremost proponent is David Griffin suggests one answer because every being possesses its own power of self determination in order for God to attain the divine aim of higher goodness for the world God must take the risk of the possibility of evil Divine Power and Evil responds to Griffin s criticisms against traditional theodicy assesses the merits of process theodicy and points out ways in which traditional theism could incorporate a number of Griffin s valuable insights in progressing toward a philosophically and theologically satisfactory theodicy It provides a new and important contribution to a long standing debate within philosophy of religion and theology

Littell,2016-11-08 Long Night s Journey Into Day is a stimulating and provocative attempt to deal with the impact and meaning of the Holocaust within contemporary Christian and Jewish thought To Jews the Holocaust is the most terrible happening in their history but it must also be seen as a Christian event The Eckardts call for a radical rethinking of the Christian faith in the light of the Holocaust examining such issues as the relation between human and demonic culpability the charge of God s guilt and the reality of forgiveness They clarify the theological meaning of the Holocaust and the responsibility that must be borne for it by the Christian Church and discuss possible responses to it as exemplified in the writings of selected modern theologians and church councils This enlarged and revised edition takes into account new topics and developments including the issue of Austrian responsibility for the Holocaust the significance and aftermath of Bitburg and antisemitism in German feminism More detailed attention is also given to other modern genocides and occasions of humanly caused mass death Additional literary historical and religious works are considered and appropriate quotations incorporated The new edition also includes a revised preface an updated bibliography and two new appendices
