Immigrants and the Industries of London, 1500-1700 Lien Bich Luu,2017-03-02 Immigration is not only a modern day debate Major change in Europe in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries led to a surge of political and religious refugees moving across the continent Estimates suggest that from 1550 to 1585 around 50 000 Dutch and Walloons from the southern Netherlands settled in England and in the late seventeenth century 50 000 Huguenots from France followed suit The majority gravitated towards London which already a magnet for merchants and artisans across the centuries began a process of major transformation New skills capital technical know how and social networks came with these migrants and helped to spark London s cosmopolitan flair and diversity But the early experience of many of these immigrants in London was one of hostility serving to slow down the adoption and expansion of new crafts and technologies Immigrants and the Industries of London 1500 1700 examines the origins and the changing face and shape of many trades crafts and skills in the capital in this transformative period It focuses on three crafts in particular silk weaving beer brewing and the silver trade crafts which had relied heavily on foreign skills in the 16th century and had become major industries in the capital by the 18th century Each craft was established by a different group of immigrants distinguished not only by their social backgrounds social organisation identity motives migration pattern and experience and links with their home country but also by the nature of their reception assimilation and economic contribution Change was a protracted process in the London of the day Immigrants endured inferior status discrimination and sometimes exclusion and this affected both their ability to integrate and their willingness to share trade secrets And resistance by the English population meant that the adoption of new skills often took a long time in some cases more than three centuries to complete The book places the adoption of new crafts and technologies in London within a broader European context and relates it to the phenomenal growth of the metropolis and technological developments within these specific trades It throws new perspectives on the movement of skills from Europe and the transmission of know how from the immigrant population to English artisans The book explores how through enterprise and persistence the immigrants contribution helped transform London from a peripheral and backward European city to become the workshop of the world by the nineteenth century By way of conclusion the book brings the current immigration debate full circle to examine the lessons we can draw from this early modern experience Deforesting the Earth Michael Williams,2003 Clearing in the deep past Reaching out europe and the wider world The global forest Society and What is Cultural History? Peter Burke, 2013-04-26 What is Cultural History has established itself as an essential guide to what cultural historians do and how they do it Now fully updated in its second edition leading historian Peter Burke offers afresh his accessible guide to the past present and future of cultural history as it has been practised not only in the English speaking world but also in Continental Europe Asia South America and elsewhere Burke begins by providing a discussion of the classic phase of cultural history associated with Jacob Burckhardt and Johan Huizinga and of the Marxist reaction from Frederick Antal to Edward Thompson. He then charts the rise of cultural history in more recent times concentrating on the work of the last generation often described as the New Cultural History. He places cultural history in its own cultural context noting links between new approaches to historical thought and writing and the rise of feminism, postcolonial studies and an everyday discourse in which the idea of culture plays an increasingly important part. The new edition also surveys the very latest developments in the field and considers the directions cultural history may be taking in the twenty first century. The second edition of What is Cultural History will continue to be an essential textbook for all students of history as well as those taking courses in cultural, anthropological and literary studies.

Globalising Sociolinguistics Dick Smakman, Patrick Heinrich, 2015-05-15. This book challenges the predominance of mainstream sociolinguistic theories by focusing on lesser known sociolinguistic systems from regions of Africa, Asia, the Caribbean, South America, the European Mediterranean and Slavic regions as well as specific speech communities such as those speaking Nivkh, Jamaican Creole, North Saami and Central Yupik. In nineteen chapters the specialist authors look at key sociolinguistic aspects of each region or speech community such as gender, politeness, strategies, speech patterns and the effects of social hierarchy on language, concentrating on the differences from mainstream models. The volume introduced by Miriam Meyerhoff has been written by the leading expert of each specific region or community and includes contributions by Rajend Mesthrie, Marc Greenberg and Daming Xu. This publication draws together connections across regions, communities and considers how mainstream sociolinguistics is incomplete or lacking. It reveals how lesser known cultures can play an important role in the building of theory in sociolinguistics. Globalising Sociolinguistics is essential reading for any researcher in sociolinguistics and language variation and will be a key reference for advanced sociolinguistics courses.

Islam without Europe Ahmad S. Dallal, 2018-04-20. Replete with a cast of giants in Islamic thought and philosophy, Ahmad S. Dallal's pathbreaking intellectual history of the eighteenth century Muslim world challenges stale views of this period as one of decline, stagnation and the engendering of a widespread fundamentalism. Far from being moribund, Dallal argues the eighteenth century prior to systematic European encounters was one of the most fertile eras in Islamic thought. Across vast Islamic territories, Dallal charts in rich detail not only how intellectuals rethought and reorganized religious knowledge but also the reception and impact of their ideas. From the banks of the Ganges to the shores of the Atlantic, commoners and elites alike embraced the appeals of Muslim thinkers who while preserving classical styles of learning advocated for general participation by Muslims in the definition of Islam. Dallal also uncovers the regional origins of most reform projects showing how ideologies were forged in particular sociopolitical contexts. Reformists' ventures were in large part successful up until the beginnings of European colonization of the Muslim world. By the nineteenth century the encounter with Europe changed Islamic discursive culture in significant ways into one that was largely articulated in reaction to the radical challenges of colonialism.
