

The Beaver Failure Ratio

- William Beaver was one of the first researchers to carry out studies into business failure.
- The Beaver failure ratio is derived from the cash flow statement (which did not have to be prepared and included in the financial statements when he did his research)
- = Operating cash flow/Short and long term borrowings
- His research showed that (further studies support his findings) 70% of firms with values of less than 0.3 fail within 5 years
- His research also showed that one of the worst predictors of failure is the current ratio
