Audit Office,2011-11-25 Despite the fact that the Department for Environment Food and Rural Affairs has made improvements in its financial management the NAO cannot yet conclude that the Department is achieving value for money in its financial management activity This is because the spending watchdog expected faster progress in improving performance since it last reported in 2008 and a higher level of financial maturity given the resources spent and the focus on financial management The Department has undertaken a number of projects designed to strengthen its financial management These have had some positive results such as revised management reporting and improved forecasting although the Department has not fully assessed all the benefits of these projects Despite increasing the number of permanent qualified finance staff and also offering financial skills training courses for non financial staff there are still weaknesses in financial capability Financial skills could also be better integrated across the Department The Department should also focus on improving its commercial skills such as contract management It should also develop a strategic model for engagement with its arm s length bodies to understand the risks that they face and opportunities open to them Since 2002 Defra has consistently underspent against its Parliamentary estimate The underspend in 2010 11 was 530 million 10 per cent The Department has however improved its management of expenditure against its departmental expenditure limit reducing its underspend in 2010 11 to 34 million one per cent of expenditure      Governance, Risk and Compliance Management in China Philipp

Progress in improving financial management in Government Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2011-03-03. Despite good progress in improving the professional capability and capacity of government finance departments since the National Audit Office last reported in 2008, good financial management is still not embedded in the civil service culture and financial matters do not have sufficient influence over departments' strategic decision making. The NAO concludes that departments have achieved a core level of competence in financial management but further improvement in financial management capacity and capability throughout their organisations is required to enable them to meet the challenge of delivering the savings set out in the Spending Review 2010. There has been important progress all departments now have a professionally qualified Finance Director supported by an increased number of qualified finance staff The Treasury is also implementing accounting changes to bring greater transparency to government financial reporting Whitehall s central finance functions competently capture and report the transactions and financial position of the departments Annual accounts are delivered before the July Parliamentary recess The number of overall overspends against the amounts approved by Parliament is low However departments are generally weak at monitoring their balance sheets and at forecasting cash flow in the medium term Departments do not fully understand the costs of their activities and it is rare for them to have good information on the unit costs of outputs levels of productivity or the value of outcomes Departments generally focus on monitoring against the agreed one year budget with a few looking as far ahead as the current spending review period of four years
