cout from couter or donn from donner The groupings and their distinctive features are explained Understanding that conjugation is just a matter of arrangement of verb endings and knowing which verbs that belong together makes learning French much easier Category A comprises over 4000 verbs and one can learn their conjugation in less than 10 minutes The curious might wonder why we prefer categories to groups Currently there are three main groups namely the first group which comprises verbs ending in er the second group which is composed of verbs ending in ir and the third group composed of verbs ending in re The first group alone the er group comprises about 13 different groups of verbs the radicals of which cannot mutually replace one another We reduce them to 8 For instance donn aim parl and cout can replace one another but cannot replace c d or c d from c der or jett and jet from jeter etc although they all end in er and belong to the first group In the second group while fini finir agi agir and b ni b nir are mutually replaceable they cannot replace sor sortir par partir mentir cour courir secour secourir or vien and ven venir We think that placing in the same group verbs whose patterns of conjugation have nothing to do with one another can lead to confusion Similarly in group 3 which comprises verbs ending in re while attendre vendre rendre perdre can replace one another in a conjugation they cannot replace prendre comprendre and moudre dissoudre and coudre do not even share common patterns of conjugation Themes are selected to facilitate visual recognition Where possible nouns adjectives and adverbs are grouped in a manner that help the learner distinguish the gender and number or show them how those parts of speech are formed The manuals are divided into four volumes for the progressive acquisition of the rules of French Grammar While Book 1 introduces such basics as articles gender masculine feminine and nouns prepositions numbers professions book 2 seeks to consolidate the knowledge acquired earlier Other tenses are examined in greater details Progressively the users build their confidence as they learn to construct correct sentences

An easy French Grammar for beginners M. MICHEL (B.A.), 1869      French Grammar for Beginners World Travel Institute, 2019-11-09 Have you ever wondered how to learn French Learning French isn't as difficult as it seems but with a little effort you can both understand and be able to write fluently The beauty of it is that you don't have to leave home First of all you have to look at your current circumstances and the reason why you're learning French In the first place it would be that you are looking for a second opinion because you're not going well You would also be at home with no time to spare and you may want to learn French at your own pace because you're not used to the language What's your motive for learning the language you must be thoughtful and self-disciplined and ready to do it To do that you have to be above you have to make sure that you have a tutor in order so that the process can be smooth Also remember that you learn by speaking and writing in the language as much as you can Right now as you're reading this you are slowly but surely moving on understanding English You wouldn't be writing notes on the right side of the page further evidence that you are moving on Every time you are not there you are reading something which further strengthens your grasp on English That's the good thing about applied learning Another thing you must do when learning French is to surround yourself with French speaking friends and family You can't buy French film or books or travel guides without French A key factor to help French speakers to help you with learning the language and help you with the words Blend them with them as an means of feedback Find a way to make the learning process fun for yourself and you must be learning with French study groups and must try to speak French when you're discussing your trip plans and remember that it's not always about wandering around the world with you're looking for that will make learning French enjoyable as possible Don't worry I'll tell you that learning French is a great thing to do
