

Operon: groups of genes that are regulated together. Since a group of genes with a common function can be transcribed together and a single signal can be used to control whether the genes are actively transcribed or not.

Operon contains a promoter and an operator.

Operator is a region of DNA within the promoter or between the promoter and the genes to be transcribed. When inhibitors are bound to the operator, RNA polymerase cannot transcribe the genes. Operons are found mostly in prokaryotes.

When a repressor is attached to the promoter region of DNA, the structural genes needed to synthesize lactose-digesting enzymes are inactive, preventing transcription. When the repressor protein is bound to the DNA, RNA polymerase cannot bind to the DNA. So we need an inducible operon to remove the repressor.

Control of Gene Expression Norman Maclean, 1976 The control of gene expression and its levels of action Gene expression in prokaryotes Experimental systems of differential gene function in eukaryotes systems involving one type of protein Experimental systems of differential gene function in eukaryotes systems of limited complexity Experimental systems of differential gene function in eukaryotes systems not well understood in molecular terms RNA involvement in gene expression General concepts of gene regulation      Developmental Biology of Prokaryotes John Howard Parish, 1979-01-01      Regulatory Networks in Prokaryotes Peter Dürre, Bärbel Friedrich, 2003 The authors explore regulatory networks in a wide range of prokaryotes including organisms that have only recently been investigated at the molecular level      Plastid Proteostasis: Relevance of Transcription, Translation and Post-Translational Modifications Fiammetta Alagna, Michele Bellucci, Dario Leister, Andrea Pompa, 2017-12-28 Due to their bacterial endosymbiotic origin plastids are organelles with both nuclear encoded and plastid encoded proteins Therefore a highly integrated modulation of gene expression between the nucleus and the plastome is needed in plant cell development Plastids have retained for the most part a prokaryotic gene expression machinery but differently from prokaryotes and eukaryotes they have largely abandoned transcriptional control and switched to predominantly translational control of their gene expression Some transcriptional regulation is known to occur but the coordinate expression between the nucleus and the plastome takes place mainly through translational regulation However the regulatory mechanisms of plastid gene expression PGE are mediated by intricate plastid nuclear interactions and are still far from being fully understood Although for example translational autoregulation mechanisms in algae have been described for subunits of heteromeric protein complexes and termed control by epistasy of synthesis CES only few autoregulatory proteins have been identified in plant plastids It should be noted of course that PGE in C. reinhardtii is different from that in plants in many aspects Another example of investigation in this research area is to understand the interactions that occur during RNA binding between nucleus encoded RNA binding proteins and the respective RNA sequences and how this influences the translation initiation process In addition to this the plastid retains a whole series of mechanisms for the preservation of its protein balance proteostasis including specific proteases as well as molecular chaperones and enzymes useful in protein folding After synthesis plastid proteins must rapidly fold into stable three dimensional structures and often undergo co and posttranslational modifications to perform their biological mission avoiding aberrant folding aggregation and targeting with the help of molecular chaperones and proteases We believe that this topic is highly interesting for many research areas because the regulation of PGE is not only of wide interest for plant biologists but has also biotechnological implications Indeed plastid transformation turns out to be a very promising tool for the production of recombinant proteins in plants yet some limitations must still be overcome and we believe that this is mainly due to our limited knowledge of the mechanisms in plastids influencing the maintenance of

proteostasis      Modulating Prokaryotic Lifestyle by DNA-Binding Proteins Tatiana Venkova, Antonio Juarez, Manuel Espinosa, 2017-03-07 The Overview of the Topic was the following One of the most active areas of research in molecular microbiology has been the study of how bacteria modulate their genetic activity and its consequences The prokaryotic world has gained a lot of interest In addition to the above the invention is based on the subject matter of the present invention which is incorporated herein by reference in its entirety All of these processes are fundamental to the operation of a genetic entity and condition their lifestyle Further the discoveries in the bacterial world have been of ample use in eukaryotes Article in German Hansen Hansen H 2003 In addition to the fundamental interest in understanding modulation of prokaryotic lifestyle by DNA binding proteins As it is well known the antibiotic resistance strains of pathogenic bacteria are a major world problem so that there is an urgent need of innovative technologies to tackle it Most of the patients are infected with the virus It is an imperative of finding new alternatives to the classical way of treatment of bacterial infections and these new alternatives Nevertheless These new alternatives will find a dead end if we are unable to obtain a better understanding of the basic processes modulating bacterial gene expression Our goal is to achieve our understanding of protein DNA interactions First the topic will bring together a lot of very active research in the study of gene replication gene regulation the strategies We therefore want to acquire an in depth knowledge of some of the mechanisms of gene regulation gene transfer and gene replication Further the readers of the papers will realize the importance of the topic and will learn the most recent thinking results and approaches in the area We are fully confident that we have exceeded our expectations Now we are proud to present the final output of the topic which is the eBook It includes 24 articles contributed by 118 authors As of today March 16th January 2017 the total number of readings has reached 19 284 14 921 article views and 2 944 article downloads
