with the SIGNAL Programming Language Abdoulaye Gamatié,2009-10-06 I am very pleased to play even a small part in the publication of this book on the SIGNAL language and its environment POLYCHRONY I am sure it will be a significant milestone in the development of the SIGNAL language of synchronous computing in general and of the data flow approach to computation In data flow the computation takes place in a producer consumer network of dependent processing stations Data travels in streams and is transformed as these streams pass through the processing stations often called lters Data flow is an attractive model for many reasons not least because it corresponds to the way production transportation and communication are typically organized in the real world outside cyberspace I myself stumbled into data flow almost against my will In the mid 1970s Ed Ashcroft and I set out to design a super structured programming language that we hoped would radically simplify proving assertions about programs In the end we decided that it had to be declarative However we also were determined that iterative algorithms could be expressed directly without circumlocutions such as the use of a tail recursive function The language that resulted which we named LUCID was much less traditional than we would have liked LUCID statements are equations in a kind of executable temporal logic that specify the time sequences of variables involved in an iteration

UML-B Specification for Proven Embedded Systems Design Jean Mermet,2013-03-19 This book presents the perspective of the project on a Paradigm Unifying System Specification Environments for proven Electronic design PUS SEE as conceived in the course of the research during 2002 2003 The initial statement of the research was formulated as follows The objective of PUSSEE is to introduce the formal proof of system properties throughout a modular system design methodology that integrates sub systems co verification with system refinement and reusability of virtual system components This will be done by combining the UML and B languages to allow the verification of system specifications through the composition of proven sub systems in particular interfaces using the VSIAISLIF standard The link of B with C VHDL and SystemC will extend the correct by construction design process to lower system on chip SoC development stages Prototype tools will be developed for the code generation from UML and B and existing B verification tools will be extended to support IP reuse according to the VSI Alliance work. The methodology and tools will be validated through the development of three industrial applications: a wireless mobile terminal, a telecom system on chip based on HIPERLAN/2 protocol, and an anti-collision module for automobiles. The problem was known to be hard and the scope ambitious. But the seventeen chapters that follow, describing the main results obtained, demonstrate the success of the research, acknowledged by the European reviewers. They are released to allow the largest audience to learn and take benefit of.
