

TROUBLESHOOTING

If you want a completely straight line, lay a T-square on your board to act as a guide. You may mark lightly with a pencil.

If the impression looks faint, add more ink to the stamp by pressing it multiple times on the pad.

If the impression is blurry, there is probably too much ink on the stamp. Press the stamp several times on scrap paper to remove excess paint and try again.

If the impression is uneven, you are probably not using consistent pressure. Just practice pushing down evenly on the scrap paper.

Other Ideas

My file folders were looking pretty drab next to my new blotter so I went back to the junk drawer for more found-object stamps. I used the same technique as above for all of these other ideas:

- Polka dots made with a rubber stopper
- Another string design made with a spindle wrapped with string. Slide a pencil through the spindle to roll.
- Brick design made with the side of gum eraser
- Triangle design made with a gum eraser cut in half
