About this book This book discusses the functions and potential of Hanyu Pinyin for teaching Chinese as a foreign language TCFL It contains contributions from experts from Germany Austria Switzerland and the USA who have looked at this topic both from a theoretical and practical perspective and have gained extensive experience on how to use Hanyu Pinyin in TCFL In addition to common applications pronunciation instruction and indication of character pronunciation the main focus is on the promotion of diverse oral and written skills including reading comprehension of character texts when teaching various target groups and at different levels The corresponding didactic concepts organization of teaching units design of curricula and textbooks in high school and university Chinese language education are also discussed Furthermore the book addresses the important role of Hanyu Pinyin in digital processing of Chinese as well as in the use of digital tools supporting Chinese language and script acquisition. All contributors share the conviction that the targeted use of Hanyu Pinyin for specific teaching goals and learner groups and in specific phases of Chinese language acquisition promotes the development of various language skills even if they sometimes employ different approaches and perspectives. Overall the book provides suggestions on how to further discuss and explore the potentials of Hanyu Pinyin in teaching the Chinese language and its character script.

Teaching and Learning Chinese as a Foreign Language Janet Zhiqun Xing, 2006-01-01

This book provides a research based account of how to teach and learn Chinese as a foreign language. In addition to the discussion of relevant second foreign language research, this volume gives detailed information on ways to develop a pedagogical model that is uniquely suited to teaching Chinese in five key areas: pronunciation, tones and pinyin characters and words, sentences, when and why different sentence structures are used, discourse and pragmatic competence, coherence and genre, and cultural competence. Specially written for Chinese language teachers, student teachers and applied linguists, this is the first book written in English that systematically addresses all major aspects involved in teaching and learning Chinese as a foreign language. This book covers all the fundamental grammar elements in Chinese, explains their functions in discourse and communication, and explores different strategies for teaching and engaging students in learning the language.

Learning Chinese, Turning Chinese Edward McDonald, 2013-07-03

In this book Edward McDonald takes a fresh look at issues of language in Chinese studies. He takes the viewpoint of the university student of Chinese with the ultimate goal of becoming sinophone, that is, developing a fluency and facility at operating in Chinese language contexts comparable to their own mother tongue. While the entry point for most potential sinophones is the Chinese language classroom, the kinds of language and culture on offer there are rarely questioned and the links between the forms of the language and the situations in which they may be used are rarely drawn. The author's explorations of Chinese studies illustrate the crucial link between becoming sinophone and developing a sinophone identity: learning Chinese and turning Chinese. Including chapters on relating text to context in learning Chinese, the social and political contexts of language learning, myths about Chinese characters, language reform and nationalism in modern China, critical discourse analysis of popular culture, ethnicity and identity in language learning, this book will be invaluable for all Chinese language students and teachers and those with an interest in Chinese linguistics, linguistic anthropology, critical discourse analysis and language education. Edward McDonald is currently Lecturer in Chinese at the University of Auckland and has taught Chinese language, music, linguistics and semiotics at universities in Australia, China and Singapore.

The Routledge Handbook of Chinese Language Teaching Chris Shei, Monica McLellan Zikpi, Der-Lin Chao, 2019-07-22
