Handbook of Health and Migration in Latin America and the Caribbean Alfonso Urzúa,Baltica Cabieses,2025-04-30 This handbook presents a comprehensive overview of theories and scientific evidence related to the complex and dynamic relationship between migration and population health in Latin America and the Caribbean According to the International Organization for Migration IOM it is estimated that as of 2020 there were more than 281 million international migrants around the world From that total 43 million are in Central and South America and the Caribbean But despite the relevance of migratory movements in these regions most of the scientific knowledge about health and migration is produced by researchers from the Global North which has produced a significant North South divide that profoundly affects how knowledge is theorized researched and transferred into practice globally This volume aims to contribute to reducing this gap by bringing together chapters that discuss health and migration in Latin America and the Caribbean based mainly on publications and scientific reports produced in the region and written by local experts coming from both the health and social sciences For too long research and policy in global health have been predominantly influenced by North American and European institutions perspectives and priorities In contrast Latin America
