

Dillman's recipe

- Total Design Method (TDM)
 - Ordering questions (most important first)
 - Use of graphical design + question writing principles (consistency in the use of large letters and contrasting small letters)
 - Printing the questionnaire in a booklet format with interesting cover
 - Four carefully spaced mailings (postcard follow up one week after the original mailing; a replacement questionnaire and cover letter seven weeks after the first mailing-certified mail; individually printed, addressed, and signed letters; addresses printed onto envelopes rather than on address labels...)

Dillman S Tailored Design Method Naval:

Research Methods for Advancing the Maritime Industry Mobo, Froilan Delute, 2025-04-23 Maritime research has an influence on policies related to international trade and ocean governance. It emphasizes the importance of navigation technologies and policies. These policies are crucial for decreasing the risk of maritime accidents including ship collisions, piracy, and environmental disasters. As a result, maritime research is necessary to advance and develop policies for security on the ocean. Research Methods for Advancing the Maritime Industry bridges the gap between traditional research methods and the unique needs of maritime studies. It provides a tailored approach to equip students with the tools and skills necessary for conducting impactful research within this field. Covering topics such as national security, maritime training, and human capital management, this book is an excellent resource for maritime practitioners, professionals, researchers, academicians, and more.

Advanced Maritime Technologies and Applications Azman Ismail, Wardiah Mohd Dahalan, Andreas Öchsner, 2022-01-10 This book presents the outcomes from the 2nd International Conference on Marine and Advanced Technologies 2021 Icmat2021, which was organized by the Research and Innovation section, University Kuala Lumpur, Malaysian Institute of Marine Engineering Technology. The theme, 'Propelling to the Innovative Idea', highlights the prominence of recent developments in marine and advanced technologies in the field of marine application, maritime operation, energy, and reliability, advanced materials, and applied science. This online conference provided a platform for presentations and discussions at the local and international level between educationists, researchers, students, and industrialists. Furthermore, it created opportunities to establish networks and meet experts in addition to the exchange of up-to-date knowledge in the field. This book is the up-to-date reference especially to those who want to learn and explore more about the latest developments and technologies of maritime industries.

Maritime Risk and Organizational Learning Michael Ekow Manuel, 2017-09-29 Bridging an identified gap between research and practice in the domain of risk and organizational learning with respect to human organizational factors and organizational behaviour, this book highlights the common and recurring threads in contributory factors to accident causation. Based on an extensive research project, it investigates how shipping companies as organizations learn from failure and give credence/acceptability to differing risk perceptions and how this influences the work culture with special regard to group/team dynamics and individual motivation. The work is presented in the context of the literature regarding conceptual links between risk and the theoretical and operational themes of organizational learning and in light of interviewees' comments. The themes include processes and structures of knowledge acquisition, information interpretation, and distribution, organizational memory, and change/adaptation, and also levels of learning. The book concludes by discussing some practical implications of the research carried out in various maritime contexts and gives recommendations for the industry and other stakeholders.

The Economics of Protected Marine Species: Concepts in Research and Management Kristy Wallmo, Kathryn Bisack, Daniel K. Lew, Dale E. Squires, 2016-10-21 Protected marine species have populations that are depleted decreasing or are at risk of extinction or local extirpation As of 2015 The International Union for the Conservation of Nature a global environmental organization lists approximately 737 marine species worldwide that are considered at risk of extinction Many are provided legal protection through national laws requiring research and management measures aimed at recovering and maintaining the species at a sustainable population level Integral to the policy decision process involving the management and recovery of marine species is the consideration of trade offs between the economic and ecological costs and benefits of protection This suggests that economics at its core the study of trade offs has a significant role In the U S a somewhat traditional use of economics in protected species research and management has involved cost minimization or cost effectiveness analyses to help select or prioritize conservation actions Economic research has also provided estimates of public non market benefits of recovering species which can be used in larger management frameworks such as ecosystem based management and coastal and marine spatial planning Inherent in much of this research however are complex biological and ecological relationships in which varying degrees of scientific uncertainty are present Addressing this type of uncertainty can affect the economic outcomes related to protected species For example recent work suggests that increasing scientific precision in biological sampling and models can greatly affect the magnitude of economic benefits to commercial fisheries while other research suggests that public non market benefits of species recovery are sensitive to uncertainty about baseline population estimates Previous research has illustrated the importance of understanding the biological ecological and economic aspects of protected species management and recovery In this research topic we synthesize current protected marine species economic research and expand the discussion on present and future challenges related to protected species economics The series of manuscripts brings together an array of prominent researchers and advances our understanding of the ecological and economic aspects of managing and recovering protected marine species

Economic Analysis for Ecosystem-Based Management Daniel Holland, James Sanchirico, Robert Johnston, Deepak Jogleka, 2012-06-25 Ocean and coastal management regimes are increasingly subject to competing demands from stakeholders Regulations must not only address fishing recreation and shipping but also sand and gravel mining gas pipelines harbor port development offshore wind and tidal energy facilities liquefied natural gas terminals offshore aquaculture and desalinization plants The growing variety and intensity of ocean and coastal uses increases the call for a more holistic comprehensive and coordinated management approach that recognizes the often complex relationships between natural and human systems For both economist and non economist audiences this book describes ways in which economic analysis can be an important tool to inform and improve ecosystem based management EBM Topics include modeling economic impacts benefit cost analysis spatial considerations in EBM incentives and human behaviors and accounting for uncertainty in policy analysis Throughout the book the authors elucidate the different kinds of insights which can be gained from the use of different economic tools In this rigorous and accessible work the authors defy the conventional stereotype that economic perspectives necessarily favor the greatest commercial development Instead they demonstrate how comprehensive economic analyses consider the full range of potential services offered by marine and coastal ecosystems including the conservation of biodiversity and creation of recreational opportunities

Review of the Marine Recreational Information Program National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Ocean Studies Board, Committee on the Review of the Marine Recreational Information Program, 2017-08-24 The National Marine Fisheries Service NMFS of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration NOAA is responsible for collecting information on marine recreational angling It does so principally through the Marine Recreational Information Program MRIP a survey program that consists of an in person survey at fishing access sites and a mail survey in addition to other complementary or alternative surveys Data collected from anglers through MRIP supply fisheries managers with essential information for assessing fish stocks In 2006 the National Research Council provided an evaluation of MRIP s predecessor the Marine Recreational Fisheries Statistics Survey MRFSS That review Review of Recreational Fisheries Survey Methods presented conclusions and recommendations in six categories sampling issues statistical estimation issues human dimensions program management and support communication and outreach and general recommendations After spending nearly a decade addressing the recommendations NMFS requested another evaluation of its modified survey program MRIP This report the result of that evaluation serves as a 10 year progress report It recognizes the progress that NMFS has made including major improvements in the statistical soundness of its survey designs and also highlights some remaining challenges and provides recommendations for addressing them
