uncertain world humans and animals make decisions under the constraints of limited knowledge resources and time Yet models of rational decision making in economics cognitive science biology and other fields largely ignore these real constraints and instead assume agents with perfect information and unlimited time About forty years ago Herbert Simon challenged this view with his notion of bounded rationality Today bounded rationality has become a fashionable term used for disparate views of reasoning This book promotes bounded rationality as the key to understanding how real people make decisions Using the concept of an adaptive toolbox a repertoire of fast and frugal rules for decision making under uncertainty it attempts to impose more order and coherence on the idea of bounded rationality The contributors view bounded rationality neither as optimization under constraints nor as the study of people s reasoning fallacies The strategies in the adaptive toolbox dispense with optimization and for the most part with calculations of probabilities and utilities The book extends the concept of bounded rationality from cognitive tools to emotions it analyzes social norms imitation and other cultural tools as rational strategies and it shows how smart heuristics can exploit the structure of environments
