Discourse Analysis And English Language Teaching A:

Discourse in English Language Education John Flowerdew, 2012-11-27 Discourse in English Language Education introduces students to the major concepts and questions in Discourse Studies and their applications to language education. Each chapter draws on key research to examine critically a particular approach in the field providing a review of important literature examples to illustrate the principal issues concerned and an outline of the implications for their application to pedagogy. Features include coverage of a broad range of approaches in the field including Systemic Functional Linguistics and Register Speech Acts the Cooperative Principle and Politeness Conversation Analysis Genre Analysis Critical Discourse Analysis and Corpus Linguistics analysis of a wide range of discourse examples that include casual conversation newspapers fiction radio classrooms blogs and real life learner texts a selection of illustrations and tables carefully chosen to enhance students understanding of different concepts and approaches stimulating discussion questions at the end of each chapter specially designed to foster critical thinking reflection and engagement with the topics covered Engaging accessible and comprehensive Discourse in English Language Education richly demonstrates how Discourse Studies can inform the teaching of English and other languages both as a foreign language and in the mother tongue. It will be essential reading for upper undergraduates and postgraduates with interests in Applied Linguistics TESOL and Language Education.

Language as Discourse Michael McCarthy, Ronald Carter, 2014-07-22 In this book Michael McCarthy and Ronald Carter describe the discursial properties of language and demonstrate what insights this approach can offer to the student and teacher of language. The authors examine the relationship between complete texts both spoken and written and the social and cultural contexts in which they function. They argue that the functions of language are often best understood in a discursial environment and that exploring language in context compels us to revise commonly held understandings about the forms and meanings of language. In so doing the authors argue the need for language teachers syllabus planners and curriculum organisers to give greater attention to language as discourse.

Discourse analysis applied to english language teaching in colombian contexts: theory and methods Wilder Yesid, Escobar Alméciga, 2016-02-29 By moving away from instrumental views of language the book Discourse Analysis Applied English Language Teaching in Colombian Contexts Theory and Methods situates the teaching and learning of English as a foreign language along a broader spectrum of socio culturally elaborated discursive dynamics. To offer this complex and multifaceted perspective it presents five discourse studies informed by diverse methodologies and aims to provoke further and deeper considerations around the issue of English teaching and learning in Colombian contexts. Similarly this work also exemplifies academic community building where different institutions researchers and students have partnered to inquire into understand and share their findings regarding EFL teaching and learning in Colombia.

International Handbook of English Language Teaching Jim Cummins, Chris Davison, 2007-12-31 This two volume handbook provides a comprehensive examination of policy practice research and theory related to English language teaching (ELT) in international contexts. Nearly 70 chapters highlight the research foundation for the best practices frameworks for policy decisions and areas of consensus and controversy in the teaching and development of English as a second and/or additional language for kindergarten through to adult speakers of languages other than English. In doing so, it problematizes traditional dichotomies and challenges the very terms that provide the traditional foundations of the field. A wide range of terms has been used to refer to the key players involved in the teaching and learning of the English language and to the enterprise of English language teaching as a whole. At various times and in different contexts, the following labels have been used in countries where English is the dominant language to describe programs, learners, or teachers of English: English as a second language (ESL), English as an additional language (EAL), limited English proficient (LEP), and English language learners (ELL). In contexts where English is not the dominant language, the following terms have been used: English as a foreign language (EFL), English as an international language (EIL), and English as a lingua franca (ELF).

Understanding Multimodal Discourses in English Language Teaching Textbooks Christopher A. Smith, 2022-08-11. Textbooks are indispensable components and in some cases the cornerstones of the mission of English Language Teaching (ELT). However, they are artefacts of a pedagogical culture that rarely echo the concerns of their most prolific consumers: teachers and students. This book offers a useful framework for evaluating ELT textbooks from a critical discourse perspective: one that is based on sound current research but also offers practical guidance to teachers. Building from a foundational understanding of ELT textbooks, the author presents a systematic procedure to critically analyze their multimodal discourse, examine how those discourses are negotiated between teachers and students in class, and measure how those consumers privately value the lessons. The book provides teachers with the tools they need to select and adapt materials based on critical multimodal discourse analysis, where not only the text but the pictures, websites, audio, visual elements, too, are subjected to a process which can reveal underlying ideologies, assumptions, omissions, and reifications. The triangulated approach demonstrated in a series of vignettes featuring Korean university students and native English-speaking instructors can inform textbook choice, instigate change, and inspire lesson re-contextualization to best suit the needs of its primary consumers.

Discourse in English Language Education John Flowerdew, 2013. Discourse in English Language Education is designed to introduce students to the major concepts and issues in discourse analysis and its applications to language education, drawing on the key research from a range of approaches. This will be essential reading for upper undergraduates and postgraduates with interests in applied linguistics, TESOL, and mother tongue language education.

English as a Lingua Franca in Higher Education Ute Smit, 2010-05-26 With English medium higher education burgeoning in Europe and elsewhere outside the English speaking world this book is the first to offer an ethnographically embedded analysis of such classroom discourse by taking cognizance of English functioning as a lingua franca ELF in international student groups By virtue of investigating one such educational programme in its entirety the study also enlarges the present knowledge on ELF discourse as it offers novel insights into the interactional dynamics that shape and develop an educational community of practice

Applied Linguistics and Language Teacher Education Nat Bartels, 2006-07-02 Applied Linguistics and Language Teacher Education is aimed at applied linguists who are interested in understanding more about the learning of novice teachers in their classes The 21 studies in this volume provide information on the complexity of novice teachers learning and use of knowledge in a variety of applied linguistics classes such as SLA Syntax Pragmatics Sociolinguistics Phonetics and Phonology L2 Reading and Writing Testing and Content Based Instruction These studies were conducted in a variety of contexts from North and South America to Europe Asia and Australia and look at the preparation of teachers of English Spanish and Chinese The book also includes a state of the art summary of research on knowledge acquisition and use which provides applied linguists with a solid basis for developing their ideas about their students learning and use of the knowledge presented in their classes
