projects are located in developing countries they face substantial implementation and performance risks that need to be considered for CDM cost effectiveness calculation As existing studies primarily focus on qualitative risk assessment there is a lack of a monetary evaluation of risk impact on CDM origination cost and CER floor price The present study intends to close this gap and introduces a model for calculation of CDM cost effectiveness taking risks into account from the perspective of EU ETS compliance investors The analysis is based on available CDM project data To ensure comparability of results a standardized project with characteristic technical parameters is defined for every project type and virtually installed in various developing countries For every cluster of project type and host country investment profitability is calculated Associated greenhouse gas GHG emission reductions are determined and integrated into the financial analysis As a result the CER floor price specifying CDM cost effectiveness is derived and indicated in Euros EUR per CER A simulation based risk model is developed and integrated into the CDM cost effectiveness calculation The risk model considers investment profitability and CER quantity risks and calculates a risk premium to consider the expected financial impact on the CER floor price Risk factors are modeled by fitting probability distributions to underlying base project data Monte Carlo simulation MCS results in a distribution of risk adjusted CER floor prices for every project cluster The model is applied to renewable energy technology energy efficiency and methane avoidance projects Risk influence on CDM cost effectiveness is exemplarily analyzed for wind onshore projects landfill gas LFG power generation and waste heat recovery WHR installations Model output shows that risk has a higher than expected financial impact which may result in risk premiums of up to three digit EUR amounts per CER The study results provide a scientific added value through integration of financial evaluation of risk impact into CDM cost effectiveness calculation The resulting riskadjusted CER price distributions for CDM cost effectiveness enable the statistical analyses of CER floor prices Project clusters with CER price expectations below traded market prices can be identified Thus the outcome not only contributes to CDM market understanding It also supports the definition of a CDM investment strategy
