Leading Learning Tom O'Donoghue, Simon Clarke, 2009-10-16 The study of educational leadership makes little sense unless it is in relation to who the leaders are how they are leading what is being led and with what effect Based on the premise that learning is at the heart of leadership and that leaders themselves should be learners the Leadership for Learning series explores the connections between educational leadership policy curriculum human resources and accountability Each book in the series approaches its subject matter through a three fold structure of process themes and impact Series Editors Clive Dimmock Mark Brundrett and Les Bell The notion that school transformation is dependent on exceptional leaders is increasingly seen as unrealistic and unsustainable Instead the idea of distributed leadership which promotes the view that all stakeholders have complementary leadership roles to play in enhancing student learning is now being promoted as a more useful framework for understanding schools and how they might be changed Subscribing to the notion of distributed leadership O Donoghue and Clarke identify two key groups the leaders of learning and the leaders for learning The leaders of learning and the focus of this book are those working at the school level to improve the quality of learning in the classroom such as teachers principals pupils and involved members of the local school community The leaders for learning are the policy makers and administrators whose support is crucial The authors argue that in order to be effective leaders both groups require an understanding of Broad trends in contemporary leadership theory Recent views on learning theory The importance of teachers engaging continually in learning about their practice The significance of creating and sustaining schools as learning organisations Forging links between leadership and learning The book s examination of the shifting approaches to leading learning in contemporary schools is enriched by innovative examples drawn from a range of international contexts Leading Learning will appeal to students involved in masters and doctoral courses relevant to the field and those undertaking programmes of school leadership preparation and development It will also be of interest to academics working in the field of educational leadership and management

Leadership, Ethics and Schooling for Social Justice Richard Niesche, Amanda Keddie, 2015-07-24 Issues of social justice and equity in the field of educational leadership have become more salient in recent years The unprecedented diversity uncertainty and rapid social change of the contemporary global era are generating new and unfamiliar equity questions and challenges for schools and their leaders In order to understand the moral and ethical complexity of work undertaken in the name of social justice and equity in diverse contexts this book uses a range of different theoretical tools from the work of Michel Foucault Rather than a prescriptive best practice approach to leadership and social justice this book draws on Foucault s four fold ethical framework and specifically the notions of advocacy truth telling and counter conduct to critically examine the leadership work undertaken in case studies in schools in Australia and England Our approach makes transparent the ethical work that leaders in these contexts conduct on themselves towards creating schools that can address the equity challenges of the present climate It illuminates and enables critical analysis of the moral imperatives shaping the equity work of school leaders and in particular the possibilities for transformative leadership that can work to create schools and school systems that are more socially just Overall the book s key aims are to Provide an innovative and comprehensive theorising of leadership for social justice in contemporary times Explicate the utility of key elements of Foucault s theorising of the ethical self to the domain of educational leadership and Provide significant practical insight into the social justice possibilities of school leadership in contemporary times through two in depth case studies

Educational Leadership Margaret Preedy,Nigel Bennett,Christine Wise,2011-11-01 Drawing together current thinking and research by leading writers in the field this Reader will help you to understand and critically analyse key strategic aspects of educational leadership including leadership perspectives and values external and internal contexts autonomy and accountability partnership and collaboration leading strategy and change The book explores major challenges for educational leaders in managing the increasingly permeable boundary between educational organisations and their external contexts and reconciling environmental expectations and internal priorities The Reader will encourage you to positively problematize the field and reflect on current debates and issues This book will be an essential resource for providers and students of postgraduate level courses in educational leadership and management as well as those involved in undertaking professional development programmes It will also serve the reflective practitioner as personal reference when occupying or aspiring towards leadership roles in schools colleges and other educational organisations Dr Maggie Preedy Professor Nigel Bennett and Dr Christine Wise have taught researched and published widely in the field of educational leadership and management Maggie Preedy and Christine Wise are Senior Lecturers in the Faculty of Education and Language Studies at The Open University UK Nigel Bennett is Emeritus Professor of Leadership and Management in Education at The Open University

International Handbook of Educational Leadership and Social (In)Justice Ira Bogotch,Carolyn M.
