Livelihoods and Learning Caroline Dyer, 2014-05-30 Current paradigms of development generally serve mobile pastoralist groups poorly their visibility in policy processes is minimal and their mobility is constructed by the powerful as a problem rather than as a rational livelihood strategy Increasingly damaged eco systems shrinking natural resources globalisation and urbanisation all put pressure on pastoralist livelihoods Such processes often worsen rather than alleviate poverty and socio economic marginalisation among pastoralists but they also precipitate engagement with forms of education that may improve their future livelihood security and social status and enhance occupational diversification Opening with a discussion of how the relationships between education poverty and development have been conceived in dominant development discourses this book reviews the disappointing international experience of education provision to mobile pastoralist groups It highlights a lack of sufficient flexibility and relevance to changing livelihoods and more fundamentally education's conceptual location within a sedentarist paradigm of development that is antagonistic to mobility as a legitimate livelihood strategy These global themes are examined in India where policy and practices of education inclusion for mobile marginalised groups are critiqued Empirically based chapters drawing on ethnographic research provide detailed insights into how the Rabaris of Kachchh a pastoralist community in Gujarat Western India engage with education as a social and economic development strategy for both adults and children and show how ethnographic and participatory research approaches can be used for policy advocacy for marginalised groups Livelihoods and Learning highlights the complex contested and often inconsistent role of education in development and the social construction of poverty and calls for a critical reappraisal of the notion of education The book will be key reading for postgraduates and academics in education development studies international and comparative education and research methodology as well as policy makers ministries and related agencies with responsibility for education

Unsettled Expectations Eva Mackey, 2016-09-15T00:00:00Z What do local conflicts about land rights tell us about Indigenous settler relations and the challenges and possibilities of decolonization In Unsettled Expectations Eva Mackey draws on ethnographic case studies about land rights conflicts in Canada and the U S to argue that critical analysis of present day disputes over land belonging and sovereignty will help us understand how colonization is reproduced today and how to challenge it Employing theoretical approaches from Indigenous and settler colonial studies and in the context of critical historical and legal analysis Mackey urges us to rethink the assumptions of settler certainty that underpin current conflicts between settlers and Indigenous peoples and reveals settler privilege to be a doomed fantasy of entitlement Finally Mackey draws on case studies of Indigenous settler alliances to show how embracing difficult uncertainty can be an integral part of undoing settler privilege and a step toward decolonization

Workers, Unions, and Global Capitalism Rohini Hensman, 2011-01-27 While it is easy to blame globalization for shrinking job opportunities dangerous declines in labor standards and a host of related discontents the flattening of the world has also created unprecedented opportunities for worker organization By expanding employment in developing countries especially for women globalization has formed a basis for stronger workers rights even in remote sites of production Using India's labor movement as a model Rohini Hensman charts the successes and failures strengths and weaknesses of the struggle for workers rights and organization in a rich and varied nation As Indian products gain wider acceptance in global markets the disparities in employment conditions and union rights between such regions as the European Union and India's vast informal sector are exposed raising the issue of globalization's implications for labor Hensman's study examines the unique pattern of employees unionism which emerged in Bombay in the 1950s before considering union responses to recent developments especially the drive to form a national federation of independent unions A key issue is how far unions can resist protectionist impulses and press for stronger global standards along with the mechanisms to enforce them After thoroughly unpacking this example Hensman zooms out to trace the parameters of a global labor agenda calling for a revival of trade unionism the elimination of informal labor and reductions in military spending to favor funding for comprehensive welfare and social security systems
