

Later Modern Era (LMA):

Atlantic Revolutions:

- The Enlightenment gave inspiration for the American Revolution
- Reasons for the American Revolution include no taxation without representation, desire for self-government, and opposition to recent British policies
- The Declaration of Independence signed in 1776 made the United States separate from British politics
- The U.S constitution ratified 3 branches of government, a bicameral legislature, and president
- The French Revolution was caused by an absolute government and old social regimes
- The three estates include the nobility, the clergy and everyone else
- The French government was led by monarch king Louis XVI and Marie Antionette
- Due to enlightenment ideas, French society no longer accepted the divine right of kings
- Also financial crisis hurt the government due to the recent war with the british
- The meeting of the estates general took place in (1780/1789)
- The meeting ended with the third estate taking the Tennis Court oath and form the National Assembly
- Soon after the National Assembly stormed the Bastille prison and issued the "Declaration of the Rights of Man and Citizen"
- The declaration turned France into a Constitutional monarchy
- In 1791, the monarchs of France were taken to Paris and held as prisoners
- In 1793, the revolution turned radical with the invention of the guillotine
- Soon the monarchy was overthrown, and France became a Republic led by the committee of Public Safety and political figure Robespierre
- The Reign of terror was a time where anyone believed to doubt the Revolution was executed
- The Haitian Revolution began as a Slave Revolt and was led by Toussaint L' Ouverture, a former slave
- In 1801, the Haitian constitution granted equality and citizenship to all
- The revolution was successful but ended with the murder of L'Ouverture in 1803
- The creoles led many revolts in Latin America during the 1800s academic history public history is a complex dynamic entity which impacts on the popular understanding of the past at all levels In Consuming History Jerome de Groot examines how society consumes history and how a reading of this consumption can help us understand popular culture and issues of representation This book analyzes a wide range of cultural entities from computer games to daytime television from blockbuster fictional narratives such as Da Vinci Code to DNA genealogical tools to analyze how history works in contemporary popular culture Jerome de Groot probes how museums have responded to the heritage debate and the way in which new technologies have brought about a shift in access to history from online game playing to internet genealogy He discusses the often conflicted relationship between public and academic history and raises important questions about the theory and practice of history as a discipline Whilst mainly focussing on the UK the book also compares the experiences of the USA France and Germany Consuming History is an important and engaging analysis of the social consumption of history and offers an essential path through the debates for readers interested in history cultural studies and the media      International Institutions in World History Laust Schouenborg, 2016-12-08 The discipline of IR has always suffered from a parochial occupation with the state and the Western system of states This book presents a case for a basic reorientation of IR away from the state and towards the study of social institutions in the sense of patterned practices ideas and norms rules The argument is that the state is an inherently modern phenomenon a modern social institution and that foundational concepts in IR should be based on a full appreciation of the wider record of human existence on earth trans historically and cross culturally This book will interest scholars and students within IR particularly IR theory anthropology archaeology and sociology      Navigating World History P. Manning, 2003-05-15 World history has expanded dramatically in recent years primarily as a teaching field and increasingly as a research field Growing numbers of teachers and Ph.Ds in history are required to teach the subject They must be current on topics from human evolution to industrial development in Song dynasty China to today's disease patterns and then link these disparate topics into a coherent course Numerous textbooks in print and in preparation summarize the field of world history at an introductory level But good teaching also requires advanced training for teachers and access to a stream of new research from scholars trained as world historians In this book Patrick Manning provides the first comprehensive overview of the academic field of world history He reviews patterns of research and debate and proposes guidelines for study by teachers and by researchers in world history

The Patchwork of World History in Texas High Schools Stephen Jackson, 2022-11-30 This book traces the historical development of the World History course as it has been taught in high school classrooms in Texas a populous and nationally influential state over the last hundred years Arguing that the course is a result of a patchwork of competing groups and ideas that have intersected over the past century with each new framework patched over but never completely erased or replaced the author crucially examines themes of imperialism Eurocentrism and nationalism in both textbooks and the curriculum more broadly The first part of the book presents an overview of the World History course supported by numerical analysis of textbook content and public documents while the second focuses on the depiction of non Western peoples and persistent narratives of Eurocentrism and nationalism It ultimately offers that a more global accurate and balanced curriculum is possible despite the tension between the ideas of professional world historians who often de center the nation state in their quest for a truly global approach to the subject and the historical core rationale of state sponsored education in the United States to produce loyal citizens Offering a new conceptual understanding of how colonial themes in World History curriculum have been dealt with in the past and are now engaged with in contemporary times it provides essential context for scholars and educators with interests in the history of education curriculum studies and the teaching of World History in the United States
