

Multi-word Verbs

Multi-word verbs are verbs that consist of more than one word. There are three types of multi-word verbs: prepositional verbs, phrasal verbs, and phrasal prepositional verbs.

Many multi-word verbs carry an idiomatic meaning. This means that they should not be taken literally; rather, they have a figurative or metaphorical meaning. Examples:

John overlooked his mistake. I was there and did nothing at the moment.

John got excited about the exam. He came by the store this morning.

Paul got up with anger because of his mistake. I couldn't help to get up with the moment.

You will have to memorize the idiomatic meanings of most multi-word verbs in order to begin to use them.

Prepositional Verbs

Prepositional verbs consist of a main verb and a preposition. A preposition links a noun or pronoun to other words in a sentence. Prepositions and verbs used to show relationships (often in English, verbs or verbs followed by the noun and the rest of the sentence). Prepositions introduce a prepositional phrase, which consists of other prepositions and/or subjects.

I was in my room when he came to the door.

In this example, was is the main verb, and in is the preposition which introduces the prepositional phrase in my room. Together, they make up the prepositional verb was in.

Phrasal Verbs

Phrasal verbs consist of a main verb and a particle. A particle is a function word that often has little meaning on its own and depends on the main verb to have meaning.

John was in the room when he came to the door.

In this example, was is the main verb, and in is the particle. Notice that in does not mean in preposition in this case because there is no following prepositional phrase — there is no object of the preposition.
