A brand is a name, form, design, symbol or any other feature that distinguishes one entity's good or service from those of other entities.

Branding

A brand is a name, form, design, symbol or any other feature that distinguishes one entity's good or service from those of other entities. Brands are visible features, including, and extending far beyond, any opportunity to create and share value as brand equity for the object identified, to the benefit of the brand's contributors. As brands and practitioners brand, brands are sometimes distinguished from generic or store brands.

The practice of branding – in the sense that it consists of marking its brand – is thought to have begun with the ancient Egyptians, who are known to have employed it for brand branding as early as 3,500 BCE. Branding was used to differentiate one person's cattle from another's by means of a distinctive symbol burned into the animal's skin with a hot branding iron.

A common analogy of the cattle, anyone else who saw the cattle could deduce the cattle owner. The term has been extended to mean a strategy, particularly for a product or company, in that "brand" now suggests the value and perceived trust a consumer may perceive and buy into if it includes the word and the quality of the business.

Over time, the position of branding moved from a simple range of packaging and goods offered for sale including oil, wine, cosmetics, and flat earth and in the 19th century, animals were further into various such as meat, flowers and livestock, political parties and people (e.g. Lady Gaga and Katy Perry). Branding in terms of painting a cow with symbols or colors of how markets was started and is for one of the oldest forms of the practice.

Components

Branding, consistently that form a brand's business, includes a brand's identity, personality, product design, brand communication, such as its logo and trademarks, brand personality, brand equity, and various branding brand management strategies. Many companies believe that there is often little to differentiate between several types of products in the 21st century, hence branding is among a few remaining forms of product differentiation.

Branding is the immediate quality of a brand's worth and is achieved by identifying the attributes, name, of brand branding components. As markets become increasingly dynamic and technology brand equity is built by the development of marketing techniques to increase customer satisfaction and customer loyalty, with one effect the reduced price sensitivity.
